EXPANDED AIR FORCE FUNDS WIN APPROVAL

House Appropriations Group Sanctions Manufacture of 784 New Army Planes.

ONLY 879 CRAFT IN USE

Air Corps Chief Points Out Inadequacy of Present Fleet of Bombers.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The house appropriations committee approved a $499,857,936 appropriation for the war department. It included the first funds to carry out President Roosevelt's proposed $300,000,000 expansion of the army air corps.

Purchase of 784 additional planes would be made possible by the measure, the total of which was $39,656,682 greater than the sum provided to operate the war department for the current fiscal year.

Mostly Combat Types.

Most of the new planes would be combat types. The department said it intended to use the funds to acquire 400 single-engined pursuit ships, 248 attack bombers—a new type for the army; 13 four-engine bombers, 13 intercepters, 55 primary training planes, 14 photograph planes, 19 basic training ships for the national guard and 22 basic combat type for the organized reserves.

The bill carried a total of $94,737,281 for the air corps, including $30,494,012 of the $50,000,000 which President Roosevelt asked to be made available immediately from the $300,000,000 emergency program for the air corps to take up the lag in aircraft production due to idle plants. The committee recommended that the department be authorized to let contracts for the balance of the $50,000,000.

Along with the appropriation bill, the committee made public detailed information about present armaments.

Testimony at Hearing.

House committee hearings on the war department appropriation bill contained this testimony:

1. Major Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the air corps, said the army has only 879 fighting planes in actual service.

2. The army has worked out

Senatorial Secretaries? These Daughters Do Very Well!

Barbara Burke — Kathleen King — Winifred Wiley — Kay Overton

Their employers may be big men in the United States senate but they're just "father" or "dad" to them. Which is one way of introducing a few of the daughters of United States senators who act as secretaries to their fathers. The four pictured are Winifred Wiley, daughter of Senator Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin; Kathleen King, daughter of Senator William H. King of Utah; Barbara Burke, daughter of Senator Edward R. Burke of Nebraska, and Kay Overton, daughter of Senator John H. Overton of Louisiana.

PICKS MANAGER FOR BALL CLUB

Owner of Mansfield League Team Names Ray French, Ex-Major Leaguer.

Ray E. French of Kansas City, Mo., a former major league infielder, will manage the Mansfield club in the Ohio State league, it was announced today by Norman Cohen, Toledo attorney, who will operate the team as an affiliate of the Cleveland Indians.

French, who was shortstop for the Philadelphia Athletics several years ago, was selected from a field of more than 50 candidates on the recommendation of the Cleveland club, Cohen said.

Included among the applicants were Dewey Stover, who managed the Mansfield club to the Ohio State league championship in 1937, and Al Devormer, former New York Giant catcher.

Cohen said he considered French the "best man for the job" after interviewing a majority of the applicants.

"French is not only highly recommended by the Indians, but by other baseball men who know him," the club head says.

French will hold down a regular infield position with the club.

Mansfield Regent Scores D. A. R. Action

Calls Act Barring Marian Anderson 'Mistake and Undemocratic.'

Refusal of the D. A. R. in Washington to permit Marian Anderson, negro contralto, to sing in Constitution hall, Washington, was termed a "mistake and undemocratic" today by Mrs. Rex G. Averill, 34 Carpenter road, regent of Mansfield's Mary Washington chapter of the D. A. R.

The action of the national headquarters, which owns Constitution hall, brought about the resignation from the Daughters of the American Revolution of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who disapproved the action of barring the famous singer.

Miss Anderson, apprised of the action of Mrs. Roosevelt, expressed "heartfelt gratification."

Said Mrs. Averill:

"The D. A. R. represents all sections of the United States and there are many southern women in it. But I am confident that the majority of members—especially in all northern states—will feel that the act of the governing board in refusing to permit Miss

RELIEF NOTES DUE, CITY BROKE

$15,000 Slated to Be Retired Today But There's No Funds; County Gets Allocation.

Mansfield and Richland county officials sought today to find a way out of their current relief dilemma as the city was unable to retire $15,000 in notes, due March 1.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe had an allocation of $20,600 in state public utility taxes, received yesterday, which is to be applied to a city and county relief debt of $85,000 in bonds and notes, but he was still undecided what amounts would be alloted the various subdivisions.

The funds are allocations to be used to retire the subdivisions' notes issued last year against anticipated state excise taxes for the next three years.

Mansfield borrowed $60,500 in November in anticipation of the distribution of the state money; Madison township, $10,000, and the rest of the county $15,000.

The city's notes were issued in denominations of $5,000 each, three of which are due today. They were purchased by the Citizens National Bank and Trust company.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley said the city was without funds to meet the notes.

Wolfe explained that he would hold up the allocations to the subdivisions until he conferred tomorrow with State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson and Chief Relief Examiner O. P. Van Shoik who will be in Mansfield to attend a meeting of Richland county trustees.

He said that he expected additional allocations from the state in sufficient amount to retire the

FUND PROBERS TO GET SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS

Judge to Deliver Extra Charge Tomorrow as Jury Launches Inquiry Into Shortages.

THREAT RUMOR HEARD

Reported Attempt to Block Indictment in One Case to Be Discussed.

Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston said today he will deliver a special charge to the county grand jury tomorrow morning when it opens its investigation of shortages in three public offices in Mansfield and Richland county.

It was understood that the charges will include a discussion of a reported attempt to thwart one possible indictment against one of the dismissed public employes whose records showed a shortage.

Hear of Threat.

While county authorities said they know of no attempt to tamper with the jury, it was reported that an unnamed person had threatened to "see that no indictment is returned" in one of the cases.

A reliable source said that the threat involved the $4,259 shortage in the Mansfield municipal court accounts which resulted in the dismissal of Allen K. Ports, former clerk.

"The court is going to be very sure before the cases are presented to the jury that there has been no tampering with the jurors," Judge Huston said.

Opens At 9 A. M.

Prosecutor G. W. Marriott said he would conduct no investigation of the alleged threat other than the usual questioning of jurors preceding the jury session, scheduled to open at 9 a. m. Thursday.

At the request of County Treasurer John E. Kolb, the prosecutor said he had added two more witnesses to the list, making a total of nine who are scheduled to testify in the three shortage cases.

The additional witnesses are Mrs. Dora M. Garver, 152 West First street, and Lena Zay, 477 South Main street. Their complaints to the treasurer led to the discovery of a shortage of at least $1,700 in the accounts of Russell K. Erdenberger, Mansfield conservancy district tax collector,

ALL OF COLLEGE PRESENT

O'Connell of Boston Arrives Hour Before Opening of Conclave Ceremonies.

(By Associated Press)

VATICAN CITY—The 62 cardinals of the Roman Catholic church met in solemn, secret conclave today to begin the elaborate process of electing a new Pope, the spiritual head of 331,500,000 Catholics.

Most of the princes of the church already were within the conclave quarters when William Cardinal O'Connell of Boston, the last to arrive, reached Rome a little more than an hour before the opening of the conclave. He and two South American cardinals joined them, completing the gathering.

All Cardinals Present.

It was the first time in many years that the entire college was present for a conclave.

The sun breaking through a sudden shower encircled the Vatican with a rainbow as the cardinals went into conclave.

Before the doors were locked, attendants rushed the last pieces of baggage and supplies for their Lenten meal into the conclave quarters.

The last outer door was to be sealed at noon.

Only ceremonies preliminary to the voting were performed. The cardinals and their conclavists swore the oath of secrecy and were locked up in a wing of the Vatican, after saying prayers to

Five Rated Strongest Contenders for Papacy

VATICAN CITY — (U.P.) — These five cardinals are believed to be the strongest candidates for Pope:

Elias Dallis Costa, 67, archbishop of Florence; Luigi Lavitrano, 65, archbishop of Palermo; Alessio Ascalesi, 67, archbishop of Naples; Maurillo Fossati, 63, archbishop of Turin; Giovanni Nasalli-Rocca, 67, archbishop of Bologna.

Dishwasher Who Walks Backward Puzzles Doctors

DENVER, Col. —(U.P.)— Psychiatrists worked today on John Bollinger, 35, who lost his job washing dishes and immediately started walking backward.

Police received a series of frantic calls about a man propelling himself backward through the streets. They found Bollinger slowly and studiously navigating stern foremost. They stopped him and turned him around. He walked away from them—backward. The experiment was repeated several times, with the same result. So they took him to Denver General hospital.

Physicians there concluded immediately that he had a rare disease which manifests itself in a maladjustment of the inner ear, giving sufferers an uncontrolable urge to walk backward.

The phychiatrists were called in and they decided that he was suffering from a form of hysteria.

PARENTS SLAIN

Indiana Farm Intruder Then Attacks 12-Year-Old Girl.

EDINBURG, Ind.—(AP)—A mysterious intruder slew Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brand and criminally assaulted their 12-year-old daughter, Johnson county officers found today upon being called to the family's rural home north of here after the child, hysterical, had run to a neighbor's to give the alarm.

The sobbing girl, one of three children, said she had lain terrified in bed with her brother and sister, aged five and six, respectively, until 6 a. m. before reporting the crime, which, she said, occurred shortly after midnight.

Police found Mr. and Mrs. Brand dead in bed.

BATTLE OUSTER

Former State Employes Fight 'Shakedown' Discharge.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Two former employes of the state department of public work today hoped that the common pleas court would restore them to their jobs from which they were dismissed Jan. 16.

In petitions filed with the court, the workers, Lloyd M. Mathews and Richard Kearney, of Columbus, charged that Carl G. Wahl, public works director, discharged them for testifying before the recent "shakedown" grand jury and for "failing to contribute to any political campaign fund."

ISSUED PAPERS

Mansfield Baseball Club Incorporates at Columbus.

Incorporation papers were issued today to the Mansfield Baseball club by the secretary of state in Columbus, according to an Associated Press dispatch. The club was incorporated with 100 shares no par.

Norman Cohen, Ruth Barnswell and Helen McGeorge, all of Toledo, are listed as incorporators. With Cohen as president, the team will represent Mansfield in the Ohio State league.

Start 3-Way Quiz In Deaths of 6 on Runaway Trolley

BOSTON—(INS)—Three investigations were launched today into the runaway of a Boston elevated railway trolley car loaded with students and shoppers which took a toll of six dead and 27 injured.

A mechanical defect in the air brake, the first of its kind ever encountered on the system which had won numerous safety prizes, was blamed by General Manager Edward A. Dana and Motorman Edward F. Hanley.

Motorman Hanley, 57, held for Roxbury district court on a technical charge of manslaughter, was absolved by Dana. Inspection showed a slide valve spring on the air brake relay valve had broken, rendering the braking of the car impossible.

With Motorman Hanley thrown to the floor, the crowded car leaped the rails at Seaver street and Blue Hill avenue, plunged into a tree and overturned.

Funerals were arranged today for the six victims.

DICTATORS MEET?

London Hears Duce, Hitler Will Confer In Near Future.

LONDON — (INS) — Predictions that Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini will meet in the near future, probably in northern Italy near the Brenner Pass, were reported today in a Berlin dispatch to the London News-Chronicle.

The paper said the reason for the proposed meeting was the need to review policies of the Rome-Berlin axis in the light of recent changes in Europe.

BACKS PREMIER

House of Commons Votes to Approve Appeasement Plan.

LONDON — (INS)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's policy of appeasement, and specifically his recognition of the Franco government in Spain, had heavy parliamentary backing today.

After a stormy seven-hour debate, during which Chamberlain listened to bitter words from the opposition, the house of commons defeated a Laborite motion to censure the government for its recognition of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's government. The vote was 344 to 137.

The motion was introduced by Major Slement Attlee, parliamentary Laborite leader, who had accused Chamberlain of telling a "tissue of half truths which were worse than lies."

OHIO MAYOR DIES

DAYTON—(AP)—Robert Dissinger, 48, mayor of Miamisburg, died today in a hospital here.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary Perkins said today she would call a meeting of the A. F. of L-CIO peace negotiating committee "in less than a week."

Mansfield's labor leaders, representing both the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organization affiliates, were ready today to re-unite in accord with President Roosevelt's plea for a peace agreement between leaders of the two national labor organizations.

While there never has been a disagreement of the affiliates of the two organizations in Mansfield, the CIO unions withdrew from the A. F. of L.'s Trades council about 18 months ago after William Green, A. F. of L. president, ordered the split.

"We are ready any time to re-unite in Mansfield and I know the rank and file of both the CIO and AFL unions is in favor of a compromise to avoid friction," Joseph Scanlon, president of Delano lodge, major CIO unit, asserted.

"We did not favor the split in the first place but the national AFL order forced us out of the Trades council," he said. "There never has been anything but the best of feeling between all the unions here."

In the other organization, M. W. Triplett, business manager of the Mansfield Building Trades council, a major unit of the AFL here, said his organization would be "glad to get together again."

Merging of the two organizations would present a stronger la-

CLUE TO ROUTE

Letters Show Missing Man Was on His Way West.

The automobile of M. H. Spreng, missing former Loudonville banker, was back home today, and through its return members of his family and former associates were able to trace at least part of the route he took after leaving Loudonville.

D. C. Nouse, cashier of the Farmers and Savings bank here, of which Spreng resigned as vice president, said Spreng mailed the keys to his car to him (Nouse) from Dayton, with instructions as to where the car would be found.

The Dayton letter was mailed Feb. 25, Nouse said, and was followed by letters from Indianapolis and Chicago since that time, indicating that Spreng, who had been in ill health, was heading west.

Nouse's son, George, went to Dayton and brought the Spreng car back to Loudonville.

GET $7.50 IN TRAIN ROBBERY

Thugs Menace Willard Railroaders On B. and O. Line.

YOUNGSTOWN — (AP) — Two masked bandits, brandishing revolvers, boarded the caboose of a moving Baltimore and Ohio freight train west of Girard last night and robbed the conductor and flagman of $7.50.

The train had stopped to repair a broken air line which either had been broken or cut. When Conductor Thomas F. Taggart of Willard boarded the caboose as the train started, two men followed him into the car.

They took Taggart's wallet and took $7.50 from Flagman H. W. Myers also of Willard.

March Lion Leaves Widespread Damage As It Roars Over State

Although the March lion had settled down to something like threatening silence today, he swept over Ohio last night with a roar and a snarl that left widespread damage in his wake.

Weather bureaus forecast temperatures in the 20's today, with continued wind, slowly rising temperatures tomorrow followed by rain or snow Thursday night. Yesterday's springlike breezes shot the mercury up to 63 degrees, the highest for Mansfield on this date in 14 years.

Early last evening the fringe of a gale that swept Akron, Sandusky, Cuyahoga Falls, Lakewood and other cities along the lake, hit Mansfield in a driving wind that later turned to a blizzard.

A power pole on the Ashland road near the Armory was blown down and branches were broken from trees during the high wind. An unusual phase of the storm, both here and in a number of other places was that although a blinding snow lasted for several minutes, there was little evidence of snow when it ceased.

At Shelby Patrolman William Hafer and other residents reported they saw a large ball of fire in the sky at 9:15. They said the ball exploded with a loud report, showing purple as it blew up. Persons reported seeing the blaze of light for miles around Shelby.

At Akron the wind reached a velocity of 65 miles per hour, breaking plate glass windows, felling signs and injuring one man. Light poles were down in the lake cities and trees were broken.

150 BUY TAGS

1939-40 License Plates Go on Sale First Time.

A dozen "early birds" were waiting in line this morning at the Automobile club when the office opened at 8 o'clock to issue the first 1939-40 license plates in Mansfield.

About 150 had been issued by noon today. Although extra clerks have been added to the office staff, Frank Beverstock, deputy registrar, said he did not anticipate a "rush" until the latter part of the month.

The new plates may be displayed after March 10, while the deadline for the old plates is March 31.

Mansfield has the same letter series this year at last, starting with WD-801 and going through WE, WF, WG, WH, WK, WL, WM, WN, WP, and WQ, while the entire series of VU, VV and VW are reserved for members of the Richland County Automobile Club.

Nazi Air Force 'Unbeatable', Goering Tells Germany

PLANE POWER PERSUADER AT MUNICH, CLAIM

Field Marshal Tells Germans Air Fleet Will Be Made More Powerful.

(By United Press)

BERLIN—Field Marshal Hermann Goering told the nation today that its air force was unbeatable.

He said the German air force was the deciding factor in the Munich conference, when Germany caused Great Britain and France to agree to the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia.

He promised that it would be made even more powerful because of the world arms race.

The occasion was the official fourth birthday of the new German air force. Goering, minister of aviation, commander in chief of the air forces, dictator of the four year plan for economic self sufficiency and right hand man of Adolf Hitler, addressed the nation by radio.

Further Expansion Needed.

"Let us not deceive ourselves," he said. "The political situation is disordered. Moreover, the armament fever has gripped most countries of the world. Thus further expansion of the German air force is necessary.

"The German air force is the most modern and most efficient in the world.

"The German air force is the terror of our opponents, and it will remain so."

Then, asserting that at Munich, respect for the Nazi air force brought the agreement to dismember Czechoslovakia, Goering said:

"It was a caution to all who were eager to attack Germany. I am proud that the air force played this role.

"I believe in the invincibility of the German air force."

Goering appealed to youth to become air minded and to volunteer for air service.

Today marked the anniversary of the day in 1935—two weeks before the re-introduction of compulsory military service — when Nazi Germany announced to the world that it had an air force, in defiance of the military clauses of the Versailles treaty.

21 Ohio Pension Employes 'Fired' By Administrator

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Dismissal of 21 provisional employes in four counties for "economy and efficiency" reasons was announced today by Tom McCaw, Ohio old age pension division chief.

Albert Levin of Lorain, supervisor of appeals in the state pension office here also was dismissed. McCaw said that Levin, who received $3,600 a year, would not be replaced.

The county office dismissals were based upon a preliminary study by the division, McCaw said. He said those discharged would not be replaced immediately.

Those taken off the Clark county payroll were Harry L. O'Brien of Springfield, sub-division manager of the county office; Mrs. Mark Peck, Mrs. Alice M. Gilligan, Nell Kennedy and Mrs. Helen Bower, investigators, $1500 each, and Mrs. Pauline Murphy, investigator, $1600.

Olive Nouss, assistant sub-division manager, will be in temporary charge of the Clark county office.

Thomas W. Meyer of Lancaster, investigator, $1,500, and Miss Irene Ross, Millersport, office assistant, $850, were dismissed from the Fairfield county office.

Rotarians had a perfectly good explanation today as to why there were two Kiwanians present for the Rotary stag dinner-bridge last night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. They said Kiwanians Scott Coffin and Henry Sanford were there to learn the superior technique and line of attack in the Rotarian method of playing bridge so that they would have an even chance in the annual Rotary-Kiwanis bridge game. But the two Kiwanians were more inclined to call it an opportunity to learn the opponents' "signals". Anyway the party last night, planned by Chairman Martin Brunner, was a success, even for T. J. Hanley who won low score prize. Other winners were Charles Nail, high score; and C. G. Hillier and Charles H. Keating, attendance prizes.

One of Mansfield's best collection of old United States paper money belongs to Earl Black, Woodland road, who has 11 of the small bills in denominations from three cents to 50 cents. While the money is virtually useless as a medium of exchange, the 11 bills are worth $100 to collectors, Black said. One of them, a 25-cent note, pictures five five-cent stamps and bears the words: "Exchangable at any United States postoffice for 25 cents in stamps." Most of the bills were issued during the Civil war period and were known as "shin plasters."

REFUSE TO WORK

Galion A. F. of L. Unit Protests Contract With CIO.

GALION—Thirty-five employes of the Stratbury Clothing company, who are affiliated with the United Garment Workers of America, and A. F. of L. union, refused to go to work today, protesting the agreement between the company and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, CIO affiliate, setting up the latter organization as exclusive bargaining agent for employes.

A meeting of the A. F. of L. employes was scheduled to be held this afternoon with a representative of the United Garment Workers from Cleveland.

Company officials, it was learned today, agreed to recognize the CIO union as sole bargaining agent after members of the Amalgamated union circulated petitions said to have been signed by a majority of the workers. The agreement was to become effective today.

It was reported that Joe Zucker, CIO chairman at the plant, told workers as they reported this morning to "either sign with the CIO or not come in the plant." Harold Newman is president of the company, which has 300 employes.

KELLY WINS IN RECORD VOTING

Chicago Mayor Re-nominated, Polls Huge Primary Vote; 'Big Bill' Loses.

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO — Mayor Edward J. Kelly, backed by a smooth-working Democratic organization, polled the largest primary election vote in Chicago's history to win renomination yesterday.

The 62-year-old Democratic leader easily met the challenge of State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney who entered the mayoral primary with a reputation as a tremendous vote puller.

Mayor Kelly not only received a majority of nearly 300,000 over Courtney but also rolled up more than 50 per cent of all votes cast in both the Republican and Democratic primaries.

His opponent in the April 4 election will be Dwight H. Green, former U. S. district attorney who gained wide notice as the prosecutor of Al Capone and other gangsters.

Green captured the Republican nomination by defeating William Hale "Big Bill" Thompson, a veteran of Chicago politics who was thrice mayor. Green's victory margin was better than three to one.

The unofficial count from all but 16 of the 3,648 precincts was: Kelly, 607,180, and Courtney 319,169, with two minor candidates polling less than 5,000. Reports from all except 13 precincts gave Green 211,965 and Thompson 62,352.

LEARNS 'BEST FRIEND' KIDNAPED HIS SON AND RECEIVED RANSOM

(By United Press)

NEW YORK — George Katz's faith in human nature collapsed today when he learned that Charles Mitchell, his best friend, had been involved in the kidnaping of his four-year-old son, Michael, on Feb. 20.

"I'll never trust another person, except my wife," Katz said. "I never thought good old Charlie Mitchell was a kidnaper. We've been friends for 20 years, lived in the same apartment houses and brought up our children together."

Mitchell, 31, Sol Schwartz, 29, and Schwartz's sister, Mrs. Nellie Resnick, 31, mother of two children, were arrested yesterday and identified as the persons who held Michael Katz prisoner for two hours until his father ransomed him for $180.

Mitchell had injected himself as go-between for Katz, to negotiate the ransom payment for him. Katz had not suspected, when the kidnaper notified him to use Mitchell as a "stooge" and let him bring the money, that Mitchell was doing more than a friendly act. He thought he was indebted to Mitchell for having arranged the child's "temporary" release for $180 when the ransom note had set the price at $7,000. He was not even suspicious when Mitchell came back to consult with him about paying the rest of the $7,000, which the kidnaper had demanded if he was not to seize the boy again.

But detectives learned that Mitchell had not been at work at the lithographing plant where he was employed, at the time of the kidnaping, and that neither had Schwartz, who worked beside him and was his constant companion. They learned that both were heavily indebted to gamblers and loan sharks—Schwartz for $2,300; Mitchell for $4,300.

NEW 'Y' GROUP

Phalanx Fraternity Organized, Vernon Smeltzer Heads It.

A local chapter of the Phalanx fraternity, a National Y. M. C. A. organization, was formed at a meeting of a group of young men last night at the "Y."

Officers of the new group are Vernon Smeltzer, president; Gilbert Weigand, vice president; Lee Harper, secretary; Richard Hoffman, treasurer, and Robert Stone and Ralph Pierce, members of the executive committee, and Ralph B. Chapman, general secretary of the "Y," adviser.

A committee made up of Ralph Pierce, chairman, Peter Merschdorf and Henry Rayburn was named to adopt a club constitution. The charter was closed last night with 12 members. The fraternity will meet every Thursday at the Y. M. C. A.

LAW TO BRING MORE REVENUE INTO TREASURY

Bricker Signs Bill to Redeem Levy Stamps at 3 Per Cent of Face Value.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — The state tax commission hustled to work today to set up a "pay-off" system for cancelled sales tax stamps.

Gov. John W. Bricker signed into law late yesterday legislation requiring the state treasurer to redeem the stamps at 3 per cent of their face value.

Expected to increase the income from the 3 per cent tax by more than $3,000,000 a year, the measure is the first definite step by the Bricker administration to tighten up the state's present revenue-producing laws in its program to avoid new taxes.

The redemption plan is designed to promote better obedience to the sales tax law by indirectly forcing vendors to give sales tax coupons to every purchaser.

Will Set Up Stations.

It is effective May 1. By that time the tax commission must set up stations at which the cancelled stamps will be redeemed. Only lots of $100 face value—worth $3 in redemption—or more will be redeemed. A new design of stamps will be issued; coupons issued before May 1 will be worthless.

The governor also signed the bill to reorganize the unemployment compensation commission and appointed the three-member board of review under the new set-up. The members are Verner E. Metcalf of Marietta, Walter J. Mackey of Canton and W. T. Roberts of Bridgeport. Mackey and Roberts are on the present commission, which will function until the governor appoints a $7,500-a-year administrator for the unemployment insurance system. The administrator must be selected within 10 days.

Enactment of a bill to make Ohio a signatory of an eight-state anti-stream pollution pact was considered likely after Governor Bricker gave his approval to the proposal.

The governor said that coal mine operators, who have objected to the bill, could be exempted from its provisions, if necessary, inasmuch as pollution from mines is said to be one of the lesser evils which the measure is aimed to correct.

Senate committee consideration of the administration's proposal to revamp the state parole board was postponed again last night because the draft of a substitute bill had not been completed. It will be taken up tonight.

DRIVER HELD

Hits Car of State Examiner Who Prefers Charges.

Henry Kracher, 45, of 21 Atherton avenue, will be arraigned in municipal court tomorrow on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

The charges were filed by State Examiner Elmer A. Zook following a collision at North Main and Fifth streets at 12:30 a. m. today. Zook charged that Kracher drove to the left side of the street and struck his machine head-on although he attempted to swerve to avoid an accident.

Arraigned in court today Kracher pleaded innocent and asked for continuance to retain counsel. Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch set the hearing for 9 a. m., Wednesday.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Pegler Raps Ickes For Lambasting Opponents of Reorganization Bill

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—On second reading, Harold Ickes' recent magazine article lambasting those who opposed the reorganization bill boils down to an angry vote of "no confidence" in the American people when their judgment conflicts with his.

Mr. Ickes says that those who protested to congress with "the greatest number of letters, telegrams and telephone calls that history records," did so while in a "state of frenzy of sufficient intensity to deaden all power of reason and overcome all desire to be fair or just even decent."

"America," he said, "went berserk on an emotional debauch, as a result of which we were given an example of irresponsible and vindictive mob rule."

"The mob," he says, referring to the citizens who thus exercised their right of petition, "did not lack the dreadful characteristics of a veritable lynching bee.

"After its drunken frenzy over the exceedingly mild and altogether harmless reorganization bill of the president," he further says, "America probably found little to admire in itself the morning after, as it regarded its own bleary-eyed appearance in the mirror."

* * *

It will be noted that Mr. Ickes holds that the bill was mild and altogether harmless and that to disagree with him on that is to forfeit one's claim to conscience, good fellowship, sanity and sobriety. That is the test. Those who agree with him were wise, conscientious and honest, while those who opposed his view were bereft of reason and of all desire to be fair, just or even decent.

His resentment explodes first about the heads of certain Washington journalists and the Rev. Fr. Charles E. Coughlin, whose radio exhortation directly, and solely evokes the storm which he describes as "a Ku Klux Klan of the air," "Ku Kluxism at its worst," "mob violence" and "a witch's mess of Ku Kluxism." But for them he never had any respect, anyway. It is the American people for whom he feels disappointment and shame and whose capacity for intelligent judgment he is compelled at last to doubt.

* * *

"The right to petition and the right to express one's self on any matter of common interest are precious rights that should be jealously guarded," he says. "But the right to petition congress is based upon the presumption of a thoughtful and informed consideration of the subject matter involved."

Mr. Ickes does not charge that any journalist cooperated directly with Father Coughlin, but he does insist that some were misinformed and that most were dishonest. Those charges are general, however, and not specific.

* * *

Broadly, any interpretation of the objects and effects of the bill which differed from his own was the result of ignorance or dishonesty or a combination of both, and if citizens insist on heeding discussions of political issues which disagree with the views of Harold Ickes, who never was elected to any position in this government, Mr. Ickes would consider curtailing their right to petition congress.

For, obviously, it is his view in this sample case that dissent from his belief showed lack of thoughtful and informed consideration of the subject. That would always be so, whatever the issue.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—A movie hit brings its own reward. Bigger salary, bigger chances to make bigger hits, greater fame. . . .

"Say that again, please?"

That's Allan Jones thinking out loud. Jones, the lad whose movie hit brought its own—penalty.

'Way back when—all of a year and a half ago—Allan made the grade in "The Firefly." After that one click with Jeanette MacDonald, the Jones horizon looked brightest of any hereabouts. The boy could sing, the boy could act, the boy could—rest.

He hasn't made a movie in a year. He has made only one since "The Firefly." And that was "Everybody Sing."

* * *

Funny about "Everybody Sing." Nobody in it liked the story or the script. After "The Firefly" Allan Jones, too, thought things were picking up. Not when they handed him "Everybody Sing." So he said Rewrite or Else. And they said No Play, No Pay. For two weeks. Then they rewrote it, and our hero did it—because just about that time he found that he was cut off from money via the air or concert. "Everybody Sing" was a fair time-killer, but it wasn't an academy award movie. Anyway, it's all movie fans have had to remember Allan Jones by—for a year.

After that Metro didn't seem to have any jobs for Allan Jones.

Now he is coming back, on his own, and not as a sort of reserve halfback on a big studio contract list.

"That's all I was at Metro," he says, "not that I blame them for it. They're in business, and in their place I'd probably have done the same thing. But they have Nelson Eddy, an established star, and naturally they've got to protect him with their best story properties and best opportunities."

And what's he been doing this past lucrative year of idleness? He's been very busy in the stable business.

The firm of Jones & Young (that's Robert of the movies) was inaugurated rather informally but today is flourishing. Jones has been crazy over horses since he was a kid in the Scranton coal mines. As a movie star he had acquired four horses which he kept in the stables of his Brentwood home.

Bob Young drifted into the equine picture by chance. On a vacation in Palm Springs, Franchot Tone persuaded the intrepid Robert to try a ride, after which he was incurable. Pretty soon Young was asking Jones to help him buy a horse, and soon after that Young was asking Jones to board the animal in his backyard. Coincidentally, their neighbor, Joan Crawford, asked about boarding her horse, and two or three other neighbors chimed in, and when Jones finished the plans for enlarging his modest stable to accommodate the crowds, he found his own lot too small.

So Young & Jones heard about a riding stable in Bel-Air that was folding, and they took it over. They have eight full-time men working there, on renting, boarding, caring for horses and other phases of the business. And unlike many of the business ventures embraced by impetuous movie stars, this one is paying for itself and returning a profit. (A tip, if you're interested: the "big money" is in boarding the animals—at $40 to $50 a month.)

Quality Club to Promote Pro Fight Shows at Armory

Signs Pine for Card Tuesday

Young Ohio State Student to Serve as Matchmaker for Fights Here.

ANOTHER attempt to inject life into professional boxing in Mansfield will be made by the Quality Athletic club next week.

Announcement was made today by Tim Nolan, promoter of the club, that he has named his son, Fred, Ohio State university student, to serve as matchmaker for a series of shows to be launched in the Armory Tuesday.

Pine Popular Here.

Young Nolan's first move as boxing matchmaker for the Quality club was to sign Lloyd Pine; veteran Akron featherweight, who has appeared in the Mansfield ring on several occasions.

Pine's opponent on the first show will be Jose Fernandez, a Cuban of Fairmount, W. Va.

The Pine-Fernandez setto will be one of three 10-round bouts planned for the opening show, the young matchmaker announced. He said he expected to complete the matchings of the other bouts within the next few days.

In announcing the boxing series, the Quality club head said that he placed his son in Mansfield as matchmaker as his wrestling promotions make it impossible for him to handle the additional duties.

His son, just 21, the youngest promoter of professional sports in Ohio, is no novice at the promotional business. In addition to Mansfield, he operates fistic shows at Columbus, Chillicothe, Lancaster and Mt. Vernon. His boxing projects are financing his education.

Although no professional boxing shows have been staged in the city since last spring, the young matchmaker believes he can revive fight interest in Mansfield with the caliber of shows he has presented in the other cities.

Young Nolan believes he has signed a "natural" in Pine and Fernandez. The latter is not known to Mansfield fight-goers, but Nolan has used him on several other cards, and claims he is a crowd pleaser who should make it interesting for Pine.

Beat Johnny Urso.

Incidentally, Fernandez's victims include Johnny Urso of Detroit, who outpointed Pine in his last appearance in a Mansfield ring.

While not all the details for the first presentation have been completed, Nolan said that the shows will be staged at popular prices.

The success of the first show will determine the dates of the following cards, he stated.

Sohioans Tackle Marion Saturday

The Ontario Sohioans will be seeking their sixth victory in seven starts Saturday night when the Commercial Motor quintet of Marion invades the Ontario high hardwood.

In the Marion club's lineup are a number of former Marion Harding stars including, Forsythe, Al Hart, Johnson and Rosebury.

The preliminary affair, which opens the program at 7 p. m., will see the Ontario Ex-Hi's tackling the Mansfield Colored All Stars. The All Stars are composed of Harold Luckie, Bud Fisher, John Fraizer, Troy Jester, Bill Pardon, and Ed Woodbury.

O'Neill Helps At Tribe Camp

Ex-Pilot to Don Mask as Pytlak, Hemsley Hold Out.

NEW ORLEANS—(INS)—The first squad of Cleveland Indians, a handful of pitchers and infielders, arrived in New Orleans today for the spring training season. Steve O'Neill, predecessor to Manager Oscar Vitt joined the troupe yesterday, and will spend a few days in camp before his International league Buffalo team goes into spring training.

The Bisons signed a working agreement with the Tribe this winter, and O'Neill was on hand to look over the rookie crop. He also will be pressed into service as a batting practice catcher, as neither of the regular receivers, Rollie Hemsley or Frankie Pytlak, has signed as yet.

From Cleveland came the word that Hal Trosky, slugging first baseman, had put his name on a contract. Mel Harder, leading Tribal pitcher last year, was expected to sign later today. Harder was kept in Cleveland by illness in his family, but probably will come to New Orleans this weekend. Bruce Campbell also signed yesterday.

HULL NEEDS ONLY THREE POINTS TO WIN TITLE

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Forward Jimmy Hull, Ohio State basketball captain, needs to score only three points against Purdue Saturday to win the individual scoring title of the Big Ten.

Lewis (Pick) Dehner, Illinois center, still is the leader—retaining the top spot by a scant two points, but his team has completed its conference schedule. He wound up with 151 points in 12 contests, an average of 12.6 points per game. His free throw record of 43 out of 56 tries was especially outstanding.

70 QUINTETS EXPECTED FOR LIVERPOOL PLAY

EAST LIVERPOOL—Approximately 70 teams, representing as many cities of Ohio, West Virginia, Michigan and Pennsylvania will compete in the 14th annual tri-state basketball tournament in the High school auditorium here Thursday and Friday, March 30 and 31, and Saturday, April 1, it was indicated today.

Invitations and entrance forms will be available to the leading teams of the middle west and eastern states. According to the present outlook entry lists will exceed those of previous years. Teams can secure forms by addressing Registrar O. E. Greenawalt at 133 W. Sixth street here.

HOLBROOK CAGERS CLAIM BEST DEFENSIVE RECORD

MANCHESTER — (AP) — Along came little Alfred Holbrook college basketeers today to claim the best defensive record among Ohio colleges. Coach Mendell Beattie offered these statistics: In 19 games—of which the Dinosaurs won 14—opponents made an average of 28.9 points per game, while Holbrook was averaging 38.

Only one team, Ashland college, scored more than 40 points against the locals, and that was a 41 to 33 victory at Ashland.

Fever May Keep Admiral On Sidelines Saturday.

MIAMI —(U.P.)— War Admiral's temperature today will determine whether the $50,000 added Widener challenge cup race Saturday will lose its favorite.

If the "Mighty Atom's" temperature continues to fluctuate as it did yesterday, the biggest race of the Florida season will be in the same boat as California's $100,000 Santa Anita handicap minus Seabiscuit. The Biscuit a 3-1 future book favorite, suffered a leg injury that forced his withdrawal from the west coast's most important racing event. The Admiral will be withdrawn from the Widener if his fever does not subside by today.

Burgett Joins Yuncker Sports For Tonight's Game With Elks

ANOTHER Richland county basketball league coach will make his debut in the City Class A league tonight when the circuit resumes play at Mansfield Senior high.

He is Bob Burgett, Butler high school coach, and he is scheduled to see action with the touted Yuncker Sports, who face the Elks lodge in the opening tussle on this evening's program.

Westies Meet Oils.

Manager George Percy's Westinghouse Electrics, who share first place with the Sports in this third and final round, will attempt to remain in the thick of the race by turning back Earl Herrick's Hi-Speeds in the second game at 8:30 o'clock.

Burgett, whose county team plays in the sectional tournament at Carey Friday night, will probably be Pilot Jimmy Breres' choice to start at a forward berth.

The Sports also have one of the other two county mentors on their squad. It is John Reese, center, who was a teammate of Burgett at Ohio State where both attended college. Orville Kibler, the other coach, plays with the Elks.

Burgett may alternate with Freddie Lewis at the forward berth, with Lewis shifting to one of the guard spots to enable the Sports' two speedy guards to secure needed rest.

The new member is expected to bolster the Sports already potent scoring attack, and will finish the season in the Yuncker club's livery. He will also perform with the Sports in tournament games later next month.

CHURCH LEAGUE GAMES

CLASS A

7:45—Central M. E. vs. First Lutheran.
8:45—Mayflower Cong. vs. St. Johns.
9:45—First M. E. vs. Episcopal.

The Sports and Electrics, if they come through with wins tonight, will hold the spotlight in the closing games of the regular season next week.

Hope to Repeat.

The Westies stopped the high-scoring club once, and will be out to repeat. A three-game playoff will be staged at the end of the season to determine the league champion. The Electrics' victory over the Sports in the final game of the second round assured them of a place in the playoffs. Yuncker's annexed the opening round title without a defeat.

NEW YORK — Norment Quarles, 138¾, Richmond, Va., outpointed Lew Feldman, 134¾, Brooklyn, (8).

Feminine Grapplers Return To Armory Ring Mat Friday

Champion Mildred Burke, Babe Myers Vie In Match Supporting Mephisto-Kudo Bout.

THE Mansfield Quality club announced today that two titles will be at stake in the Armory Friday night. The first crown will be defended by the Great Mephisto, who tangles with Kimon Kudo of Japan. The second will be the lightweight championship held by Miss Mildred Burke, who has agreed to place it on the block once more against dynamic Babe Myers of St. Paul.

Babe Disqualified.

Miss Myers gave Milly a whirlwind battle here last week, but lost on a disqualification. Repenting her hot-headed attack, she told Tim Nolan that she would alter her tactics if given another shot at the Kansas City lassie.

The Quality club is hailing this double-barreled attraction as the best ever presented here. Improved attendance has marked recent wrestling enterprises in this vicinity and the appearance of these nationally-famed stars would indicate that one of the largest crowds in recent seasons will be on hand Friday.

MILDRED

Kudo's second shot at Mephisto should develop into a great match. The little Nipponese has promised a match replete with his native jiu jitsu.

Advance sale of tickets is being conducted at Hunt's News depot and the Ringside cafe.

Inmates Falter In Second Half

Failing to keep up their first half scoring pace, the Reformatory inmate cagers bowed to the Weigand Truckers of Dover, 48 to 40, on the institution court yesterday. The inmates held a 9 to 6 lead at the end of the first period and 21 to 14 advantage at the half, but the visitors climbed within one point of the lead before the completion of the third frame. The Doverites outscored the inmates by nine points in the final frame to cinch the verdict.

Fox, Dover center, accumulated 23 points to lead the scoring for both teams. Taylor and Brown were high for the inmates with 14 and 10 points, respectively.

Tire Room Bowlers Topple 2737 Sticks

Harry Hollingsworth of Foremen Leads Individuals With 639 Series, Opening With 247.

THE TIRE ROOM team set the scoring pace in the Mansfield Tire league at the Meder Recreation alleys last night with a 2737 total. Gross, 585; Wolfe, 582, and Thieding, 581, led the Tire Room in its big string to win three from the Main Office No. 2 club.

Harry Hollingsworth of the Foremen led the individuals with a 639 series, which he opened with a 247. He led his team to an even 2700 total and a pair of wins over the Curing Room No. 2, paced by Abe Weakland's 600.

Bill Fenn of Main Office No. 1 came through with a 616, and Jim Dunn marked up a 615.

Harold Lemunyon and Sophia Meder, with respective totals of 572 and 562, led the scoring in the Mixed Doubles league, while Johnny DeYarmon was high in the Mansfield Theater league with a 552. Whitcomb shot a 544 in the Transfer league.

Presbyterian Cagers Take Undisputed Lead in 'B' Loop

THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN cagers held the undisputed lead in the Class B Church league today. The Presbyterian cagers whipped Park Avenue Baptist, 32 to 29, at Y. M. C. A. last night, while South Main bowed to First Christian, 37 to 27.

The Baptist and South Main teams were tied with the Presbyterians for first place prior to last night's play.

Led by Wagner and Collins, who scored 16 to 11 points, respectively, the Presbyterian cagers led all the way, holding a 15 to 14 advantage at the half. Condon tallied 16 points for the Baptists.

South Main failed to hold the advantage at any time as it fell before the Christians, who were in front by a 16 to 11 margin at the half. Moorhead and Durbin led the winners with 15 and 10 points. Dickson tallied 13 for the losers.

Brubach scored 11 points to lead St. Johns to a 37 to 21 victory over Central M. E., and First M. E. outpointed Mayflower, 17 to 12.

Shiloh Retains Crown

Drummer Boys Score 38-30 Victory at Plymouth in Postponed Game.

SHILOH high school owned its second Twin-Valley league championship in as many years today.

The Drummer Boys defeated the Plymouth Tigers, 38 to 30, on the Plymouth hardwood in a postponed game last night to retain the championship they won last year. The Shiloh team's margin at the conclusion of the league season is a game and a half.

Hike Margin After Half.

Led by Bob Moser, the Drummer Boys led the entire distance, but they did not obtain a comfortable lead until the third period.

Coach Raymond Richards' basketeers jumped into a 10 to 7 lead in the opening period, but the hosts held their own in the second quarter, the half ending 20 to 17 in favor of Shiloh.

Shiloh obtained its eight-point victory margin in the third period when it limited the Tigers to two points while accumulating 10.

Plymouth outscored the champions 11 to 8, in the final period, but was unable to crawl any nearer than eight points to Shiloh's lead.

Moser, Dawson High.

Moser was the scoring leader for Shiloh with seven baskets and a free throw for 15 points, but Center Dean Dawson was right behind with 13. Leroy Ellison paced the losers with 13 points.

In the preliminary game, the Shiloh reserves outpointed the Plymouth seconds, 26 to 10.

CONN OFFERED NON-TITLE BOUT WITH CHAMPION

PITTSBURGH —(U.P.)— A non-title fight between Solly Kreiger the middleweight champion everywhere but in New York and Billy Conn of Pittsburgh, is being considered today by Johnny Ray, Conn's manager. Ray announced that Ed Frayne, matchmaker of Madison Square Garden, had made him an offer to bring Conn to the Garden, May 5.

OPEN ASHLAND-WAYNE TOURNAMENT THURSDAY

ASHLAND—Rittman and Applecreek will meet in the opening game of the Ashland-Wayne Class B tournament here Thursday. Other opening round games toss Sullivan against Smithville, and Loudonville against Fredericksburg. Nova draws a bye. The tournament will be staged on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

Fort Wayne Denied Short Ship Date

CANTON —(AP)— Seven meetings, all in Ohio, are to be held this year by the Ohio short ship harness racing circuit.

The circuit stewards, who met here yesterday, turned down an application for dates from Fort Wayne, Ind., explaining that its request for dates prior to the opening of the grand circuit could not be met.

The stewards elected George E. Brice, Toledo attorney, circuit president to succeed B. A. Millikan of Youngstown. J. B. Carnes of Canton was re-elected secretary-treasurer and instructed to assume the duties of vice president.

The loop will open its season at Columbus on May 30 with a three-day meet. Other meetings will be held at Mansfield, starting June 3; Marion, June 12; Canfield, June 19; Canton, June 26; Toledo, July 3, and Dover, July 10.

Cigars, Farms Head Program

Game to Have Important Bearing on Title.

With only two nights of play remaining on the second and final round schedule, the results of Thursday's games in the Senior league at the Friendly House will have an important bearing on the championship.

Two of the three teams tied for first place will collide in the feature game on Thursday's program.

The first game at 6:45 p. m. will send the Musille Cigars against the Raemelton Farms, who are involved in the deadlock with the Rex Billiards, first half champions.

The Cuemen meet the Blue Goose Sohioans at 8:45 p. m. in another game that should develop into an exciting affair. The Augustine Canfields and Miller Dairys vie in the middle game.

Regardless of the outcome of the games Thursday, the title will not be decided until the final night.

Bob Feller to Draw Down $17,000 for Pitching Wins for Cleveland Indians This Season; Contract Includes Bonus Clause, Too.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

ALVA BRADLEY and his associates will pay Bob Feller $17,000 for pitching victories—they hope—for the Cleveland Indians this year. If the attendance at the Cleveland parks goes over a certain figure, Bob will get a bonus. . . . That's an elegant story in this week's Saturday Evening Post about Larry MacPhail, boss of the Dodgers. . . . Here's a red hot tip from Col. Matt J. Winn, venerable 78-year-old impresario of the Kentucky Derby: The logical favorites in this year's race are, in his opinion, El Chico and Porter's Mite. . .

CONVICT'S DAUGHTER + + +

By RUTH RAY KANE

(Copyright, 1939.)

CHAPTER EIGHT

For a moment after Lona had told Jim Claridge about Hardy's threat to put her on a blacklist because she was a convict's daughter, Jim said nothing. His mouth had set into a stern line and she saw his fists go hard and white on the restaurant table. At the word "convict" he had whitened slowly with the sick, haunted look she had seen on his face last night when she had first told him about her father. Stricken, he looked.

"The damned bully!" he brought out, finally. "I'll punch his yellow face for him!" With sudden fury he half rose from his chair. "I'll mop up the floor with the scum! Where is his office?"

"Oh, no!" she cried out, sharply, then, "You mustn't, Jim!" In her excitement the name fell easily from her lips. "I didn't mean that I wanted—I couldn't let you get into trouble on my account!"

"Somebody's got to take care of you, girl." His lips were set. "Why didn't you call me this afternoon? I haven't worked since the rain started."

"I didn't know," Lona murmured, a hot, shamed flush spreading over her face. "I thought you were working," she lied. "And besides, now that I have the prospects of a job, you mustn't do anything—don't you see?" She was watching him anxiously.

"You're too hot-tempered," she told him. "All you men are alike. I don't think I could bear to be mixed up in another fight. You might KILL him the way Daddy did, and then—"

She shuddered and, relaxing, he leaned across the table and patted her hand.

"Sorry," he said. "I wasn't thinking. It made me see red for a minute. I don't want to make any more trouble for you, of course. But I sure would like to get in just one punch," he finished, smiling the little half-smile that Lona remembered from last night. Watching him light an after-dinner cigaret with deft movements of his capable looking hands, she recalled her bitter doubts of the afternoon with a wave of shame. How could she have thought she couldn't trust him? With his eyes, and that smile! You could always trust a man who smiled like that.

"Tell me about this — job of mine," she prompted, when he had finished the cigaret.

"I'll punch his yellow face for him!"

For answer he rummaged in his pocket and drew out an old envelope. "Scribbled it down here," he confided. "It's at 1168 Lothrop avenue. The Western Realities company, eighth floor, Drexel building. You're to bring your agency card, and ask for Mr. Sanders. How does that sound?" he asked, passing her the envelope.

"It sounds wonderful! I can scarcely believe it," Lona breathed, studying the penciled scribbles. "If you only knew—" She choked suddenly, and dropped the battered envelope into her purse as if it were a newly acquired treasure. What if she had made good her intention of hiding away, she was thinking. She would never have known . . .

"You don't think that he—Mr. Hardy—might go through with that blacklist?" she asked, as a sudden new fear startled her. "He couldn't keep them from hiring me, could he?"

"I'd break his neck if he tried it!" he assured her, his face going grim again for an instant.

Then, tossing his cigaret away, he leaned across the table with a boyish toss of his head. "Let's quit worrying and celebrate," he said. "I think we've both got a spree coming to us. How about hunting ourselves up a good show?"

A show! Lona could feel her own eyes brighten. It had been so many weary months since she had been able to afford even a movie.

"I shouldn't," she told him, trying not to sound regretful. "You've done so much for me already. I feel—"

"But I want to!" he protested quickly. "Unless there's something else you'd rather do. You see, girl, I'm lonesome, sort of. It's a long way from—California."

His voice was so forlorn Lona had to laugh. "If you put it that way it makes it a duty," she conceded, her voice gayer than it had been in weeks.

"Only," she added, ruefully, you'll have to wait until I change my dress. And I suspect my face needs washing." She laughed again.

* * *

"Two derelicts together," he said, whimsically, tucking her arm through his as they descended the steps of her new boarding house a half hour later.

At his touch Lona's heart contracted. She had been wanting to do that very thing. But she had been too timid. It was so sweet to be close to someone again. She wondered if he realized.

"How old are you, girl?" He looked down at her to ask, suddenly, as they strolled, looking for promising theater signs.

"I'm twenty-two," Lona told him.

That brought a surprised look to his rugged face. "Whew!" he exclaimed, boyishly. "And I thought you were about sixteen. . . . Why, you're grown up. Better watch your step, James!"

He pretended to pull away from her, and Lona laughed. Laughed with a lump in her throat. To be joking, in the old, sweet way.

"Let's hunt up the gayest, giddiest musical comedy we can find," she said, with sudden upsurging recklessness. "Something with lots of girls, and snappy songs, and jokes — plenty of jokes".

As if in answer to her mood, a flashing sign a block away intruded upon her consciousness. A scintilating thing of winking blue lights that stood out in the thick dusk like jewels on a woman's hand.

"HAPPY DAYS," it called enticingly.

As they came nearer, a loudspeaker began to blare from somewhere beneath the sign.

"Happy days are here again!" a Herculean voice lilted. "Ta-ta—ta-ta—ta-TA-ti-tum—"

Lona looked at the man beside her.

"Here we are," she said, steering him toward the sign. "Come on."

* * *

Next morning, all the way across town on the street car, crowded with its quota of work-bound passengers, Lona kept reading over the scribbled note on the old envelope Jim Claridge had given her. "1168 Lothrope avenue. Western Realties, eighth floor, Drexel building. Ask for Mr. Sanders."

Funny, she found herself thinking, that such a worn, dirty, discarded thing could give her so much hope. She had read countless business addresses printed neatly in the want ads and they had never meant anything but just—more refusals. But this! An almost illegible scrawl—Jim was a terrible writer, she observed—and it meant new life! . . . or did it?

* * *

A host of doubts assailed her as she stepped, finally, from the elevator and saw across a darkened corridor the gold-lettered "WESTERN REALTIES," of which she had dreamed last night in her sleep. Suppose Jim had misunderstood the message from the agency. Suppose this were only a try-out and there would be four or five or a dozen others here to compete. Suppose this Sanders turned out to be another Hardy. Or—what really worried her most — suppose Hardy had made good his threat of a blacklist and she would be turned away again. "No, no!" she kept telling herself, reassuringly. "He couldn't do that. I'm crazy to be afraid."

But it took all her courage to fling open the frosted door and step inside. To the sandy-haired office boy who bobbed up at her entrance she proffered her hesitant request to see Mr. Sanders with a grateful glance at the empty room. She was, so far as she could see, the only applicant. That fear, at least, was groundless. She squared her shoulders as the office boy motioned her toward the inner office and went forward steadily to meet whatever was in store for her.

ORANGE TREE, 82

OROVILLE, Cal.—(U.P.)—Northern California's "Mother" orange tree, planted at Bidwell Bar in 1856, celebrated its 82nd birthday. County Agricultural Inspector J. F. Fitzgerald pronounced it in sufficiently good condition to live for another 80 years.

3 Mansfield Students and 2 From Vicinity In Activities.

Three Mansfield students and two others from this vicinity attending Ohio State university were named in various activities on the university campus in a dispatch from Columbus today.

The Mansfielders are Jean Seybold who will act as accompanist when the university's symphonic choir presents its annual home concert Friday night, Robert McCormick who has been named to a committee to plan for the first annual Sophomore dinner, and George Sattler who was appointed to the cap and gown committee of the senior class.

Bertram Deibig of Galion was chosen to the social committee of Scabbard and Blade, military honorary fraternity, and Lawrence Kempton of Mt. Vernon also was named to the same committee, and recently was pledged to Texnikoi, honorary engineering organization.

Nests of mashed potatoes, browned and filled with creamed peas, carrots or green beans, make effective garnishes for roast beef.

If a candle had three ends...

Those who burn the candle at both ends are borrowing tomorrow's pleasures for today. If a candle had three ends they'd burn them all. Then, there's the fellow who never lights his candle at all. He's bluffed by his fears of tomorrow.

The destiny of our America depends upon those who can see today's needs clearly . . . who can await tomorrow with confidence. Such was the spirit of our gallant forefathers. Had they burned the candle at both ends, or, had they failed to burn it at all . . . they would have accomplished nothing. Instead, they left us a priceless heritage . . . a land and opportunities that other nations envy.

WHAT started out to be a publicity gag when the Stroud twins were asked to go with the lovely Brewster twins, developed into a marriage when Claude Stroud married Gloria Brewster, with Barbara Brewster and Clarence Stroud as attendants. "Cafe Society," with Madeliene Carroll and Fred MacMurray is due for release March 3 . . . Isa Miranda, whom Paramount has built up, makes her American debut in "Hotel Imperial," due for release March 24. . . When "Union Pacific" is released in April it will be Cecil B. DeMille's third film based on American history . . .

* * *

"Three Musketeers."

The Ritz Brothers burlesque the famous characters of Athos, Porthos, and Aramis in Dumas' "Three Musketeers," booked for the Madison the last half of the week, while Don Ameche plays the dashing D'Artagnan, once portrayed by Douglas Fairbanks, sr., in silent pictures. Pauline Moore is seen as the Lady Constance. The cast also includes Joseph Schildkraut as the king; Binnie Barnes, Gloria Stuart, and the dialect comedian, Lionel Stander, plays Cardinal Richelieu. The second feature of the double bill is "Pardon My Nerve" with Lynn Bari and Michael Whalen.

* * *

Learn to Serve.

Hospital life as viewed from the eyes of a nurse is brought to the screen in "Four Girls In White," opening today at the Ohio theater and continuing through Friday. A sensational train wreck is a dramatic highlight of the picture which tells the story of four girls who take up nursing careers—Florence Rice, Una Merkel, Ann Rutherford and Mary Howard. Each girl has a different motive in taking up the work, but in the end they have a single purpose, that of serving humanity. Alan Marshall, Kent Taylor and Buddy Ebsen are in the cast.

* * *

Romance In Sleuthing.

A new, colorful and romantic detective character is brought to the screen by Kent Taylor in "The Last Express," a Crime Club production, opening tomorrow at the Park. As a debonair detective who hunts down beautiful gals as ruthlessly as he tracks down killers, Taylor ferrets out a murder from a collection of a dozen suspects, recovers $300,000 and places a gang chief behind bars. Ralph Bellamy and Mickey Rooney are featured in "Little Pal," one of the earlier Rooney films.

* * *

Down to the Sea.

Men who go down to the sea in ships are very frequently movie stars, and there are six of them in "The Storm," the drama of a marine disaster which is current at the Ritz theater. The men are Charles Bickford, Barton McLane, Preston Foster, Tom Brown, Andy Devine and Frank Jenks. The big thrill is, of course, the storm at sea. A film of widely contrasting subject is "Hold That Co-Ed" with John Barrymore, Marjorie Weaver and George Murphy.

* * *

Star-Filled Cast.

If there were nothing else to recommend "You Can't Take It With You," there would still be the prize cast of the year, with Lionel Barrymore, James Stewart Jean Arthur, Edward Arnold, Mischa Auer, Spring Byington and a supporting cast of equally well known players. But the screen story is even more delightfully human than the famous stage play. The film is one of the Majestic attractions through Thursday. The second one is "Merrily We Live," with Constance Bennett, Brian Aherne, Billie Burke and others.

MR. FARMER:

You cannot farm successfully with old worn-out equipment and the present low prices and easy terms on new equipment does not justify the attempt. The firms advertising on this page are all ready to show you their 1939 lines of the newest and most up-to-date farm machinery.

FOR SPRING

Better Equipment for Better Farming

It's Time NOW to PREPARE

Don't wait until plowing time to replace worn-out equipment or order repair parts. You should be getting ready NOW! See any of the dealers advertising on this page. They will gladly arrange a demonstration with no obligation on your part.

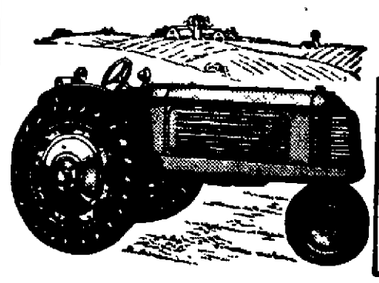
America's Most Economical Tractor

The Leaders in Their Field for Over 100 Years

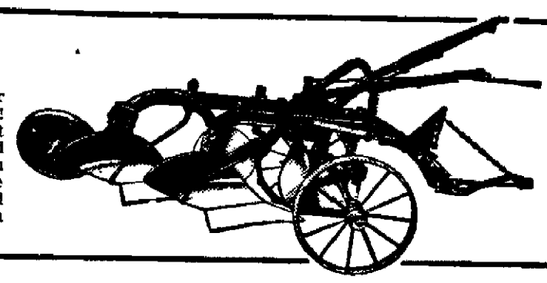


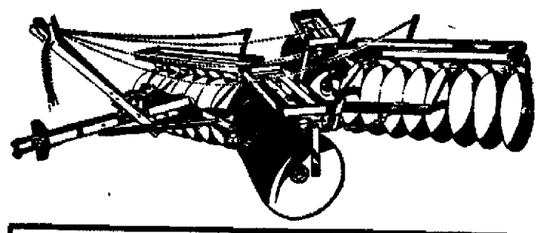
It plows an acre on as little as 1¼ gallons of gasoline and will work 200 continuous hours without changing oil. THAT'S REAL ECONOMY! It pulls two 14 or 16-inch plows at 4.4 miles per hour, easily and quietly. Takes care of all draw bar and belt jobs on farm up to 320 acres. THAT'S REAL POWER!

Any time you want repair parts, Sears can furnish them quickly. At Sears the term "service" as applied to mechanical merchandise means more than satisfactory operation for a few months—or even a few years. The finest piece of equipment ever built, has parts that will eventually become worn and need replacement. We carry a representative line of repair parts in stock. You can be sure of service when you buy Graham Bradley tractors and implements.

Bradley Tractor Plow

Money can't buy a better tractor plow than a Bradley! We invite you to compare it with any other make and prove to yourself that you get better plowing, more strength, lighter draft and unequaled durability with a Bradley.



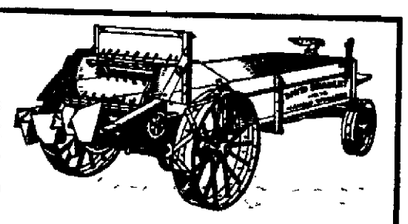


David Bradley Tractor Disc

Built to match the strength of your tractor. They stand up under the continuous racking grind of power farm operation.

David Bradley Manure Spreader

Save time, labor and money with this famous Bradley manure spreader! Easy to load . . . built low. Pulls easy because of 10 heavy-duty roller bearings. 14 Lincoln Kleenseal fittings make correct lubrication easy. High carbon steel frame. Sturdy long-leaf yellow prime box holds 55 to 70 bushels.



See the modern Graham Bradley Tractor and the complete line of Bradley tractor-drawn implements plus a complete line of horse-drawn implements at

HIT OPPOSITION IN ATTEMPT TO EXTEND GAINS

Stocks Slip Fractions in First Session of March; Bonds Resume Climb.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market met opposition today in an effort to extend the late February advance.

Slipping fractions were Bethlehem, General Motors and American Telephone. Small gains were retained in Greyhound, North American, Youngstown Sheet and Santa Fe.

Further advances in security prices in London and signs of a spring business upturn in this country tended to keep sentiment on the bullish side of speculative markets.

The upswing in bonds continued and silk had another sharp spurt in commodities.

Seasonal stimulus was expected to boost operations in some industries this month, particularly motor production and building.

The "Iron Age" said, however, the motor industry still was pursuing a hand-to-mouth buying policy, although declining steel inventories were expected to force buying before the end of March.

In keeping with the winter letdown in activity, latest rail carloading and electric power figures failed to meet seasonable expectations.

RELIEF NOTES DUE, CITY BROKE

$15,000 Slated to Be Retired Today But There's No Funds; County Gets Allocation.

city's notes, pointing out that the major portion of the current allotment would go to the county to retire bonds issued several years ago.

While the city officials sought funds to meet the obligations contracted last year for relief bills, J. Verne Finney, relief director today said that the city's indebtedness for the first two months of 1939 already had topped the $20,000 mark.

Meanwhile in Columbus State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood sent to the state board of control his initial cerification of relief needs of Ohio counties.

The first distribution from a $5,000,000 stop-gap program will be confined to about 50 counties, Sherwood said. Only counties whose municipalities and townships can match state grants dollar for dollar can participate.

It was learned that welfare and fiscal authorities had agreed on an interpretation of the temporary relief measure to meet protests from counties which have sufficient money for relief needs for the first two or there months of this year but not thereafter.

The bill provided that January relief expenses would be considered matching money, but no provision was made beyond that period.

City and county officials here along with the rest of the state had contended that they were unable to apply for state grants because they had no money for matching purposes.

WLW POWER CUT 450 KILOWATTS

Radio Station Operates In Low Bracket; Loses Court Fight.

CINCINNATI — (AP) — For the first time in nearly five years, radio station WLW operated today with its power reduced from 500 to 50 kilowatts.

The U. S. court of appeals for the District of Columbia yesterday denied the Crosley corporation's motion to stay a federal communications commisison order to reduce the station's power.

Crosley's "nation's station" had operated with the higher power on an experimental basis. Its regular license specifies power of 50 kilowatts. It is the only standard broadcast station in the country ever to use power of 500 kilowatts.

PADEREWSKI ILL

Pianist Postpones Opening Of American Concert Tour.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Illness has forced a postponement of the opening of Ignace Jan Paderewski's 20th American concert tour.

The 78-year-old pianist, former premier of Poland, cancelled an engagement in Newark tonight because of a cold and slight temperature. His business manager said Paderewski hoped to begin his tour Sunday in Cleveland.

CORRECTION

The name of Bruno Loeckel South Main road, was incorrectly used in yesterday's editions of The News-Journal as one of the defendants whose cases will be presented to the county grand jury tomorrow.

The defendant is Loeckel's son, Forrest B. Loeckel, 18, who is accused of attempting to break into Musille's cigar store last week. The youth lives at the same address. The elder Loeckel has no connection with the case.

plans with private industry to make bombs by new methods which promise greatly increased production.

3. The budget bureau believes $25,000 should be added to the annual outlay for the military intelligence service.

4. The War Department has approved plans for complete reorganization of the infantry regiment to give it more powerful and mobile armament.

5. The army believes its plans should stand out in the open—to save $11,550,000 annually in the cost of hangars and to offer less attractive targets to enemy bombers.

General Arnold explained the 879 fighting planes including the bombers, attack and pursuit planes that in wartime would be called on to defend the United States from aerial invasion.

Added to these, he said, were 104 observation craft, and also training ships and planes used by the national Guard.

The army has asked manufacturers to submit bids on a training plane made of plastic materials. Eventually, Arnold said, it is hoped to "pour airplanes" like concrete.

Meanwhile, efforts are being made to do away with the present use of from 40,000 to 50,000 rivets in a plane, by using stainless steel and the employment of spot and stitch welding.

Close study has been started of the helicopter and planes of extremely slow landing speed, as well as the autogyro, for use as observation craft.

HELD AS SPIES

Germans Jailed in Mexico on Espionage Charges.

MEXICO CITY —(INS)— Two alleged German spies were under arrest in Mexico today after being tracked down by agents of the department of immigration on charges of sending military secrets to Berlin.

Some reports stated six other persons, several of them Germans, also were in custody, but these rumors were not immediately confirmed.

The two arrested men were Baron Hans Heinrich Holleufer, a brother-in-law of the Berlin Police chief, Count Wolf Heinrich Von Helldorf, and Paul Gardinsky, described as a "friend" of Chancellor Hitler.

Both were accused of espionage, according to authorities.

BOY, 15, HECKLES THIEF, WOUNDED

Columbus Youth Shot as He Says 'Don't Be a Phooey.'

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Waving a pistol, a bandit walked into a grocery store last night and yelled, "this is a stick up."

"Aw, don't be a phooey," grinned 15-year-old Ralph McGowan as he walked toward the man.

The gun smashed twice against Ralph's head and as the boy slumped down the bandit stepped back three paces, aimed, fired, and fled.

Ralph was shot through the back and left arm. Hospital attaches said today his condition was "fair."

DIES FOLLOWING LONG ILLNESS

SHELBY — J. Frank Armentrout, 49, a lifelong resident of Richland county, died at his home on North Broadway, Tuesday night after an illness of seven years. His father, William of Shelby, and three brothers, L. P., of New York City, and W. S. and O. D., of Shelby, survive. He was a member of the Junior Order of American Mechanics and Modern Woodmen of America.

Funeral services will be held at the Sutter funeral home at 2 p. m. Thursday with Rev. Arthur Staples of the Methodist church officiating. Burial will be in the Oakland cemetery.

who was dismissed immediately by Kolb.

The two women were billed for delinquent conservancy tax they claimed they already had paid.

Other witnesses in the cases will be Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, who dismissed Ports as municipal clerk; Mayor J. T. Gaskell of Plymouth, Treasurer Kolb and three state examiners.

Mayor Gaskell will be asked to testify in the case against A. F. Marvin, former village clerk, who resigned after an examiner's report showed a $2,698 shortage in his accounts. Marvin is free under $2,500 bond after pleading innocent to an embezzlement charged filed by the county prosecutor.

With Mrs. Edna Fisher, 179 Western avenue, excused from duty because of illness, the grand jury panel was one member short today. Judge Huston will appoint a juror to fill the vacancy.

Members of the jury, chosen about the middle of January for the present court term, are:

Chester Morgan, Perry township; Wilda Stephenson, 141 Dickson avenue; Barney Adams, Cass township; Andrew Kass, 139 West Third street; Nellie Fay, 91 Maple street; Herman Lampert, 129 East Fourth street; S. Plans House Petition to Force Wagner Act Revision

MISSOURI DEM PRESSES DRIVE FOR OWN BILL

Anderson Says He'll Request Solons to Force Measure to Floor of House.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A major move to force revision of the Wagner Labor Relations act will be started in the house within a few days, Rep. C. Arthur Anderson (D., Mo.) announced today.

Rallying foes of the labor act, Anderson proposed to force consideration of his own revision bill in the house by discharging the house labor committee from consideration of the measure.

Anderson announced that he will place a petition on the speaker's desk to discharge the committee, and call upon 218 members, a majority of the house, to sign it. If the petition gets the required number of signatures, the question will be brought to the house floor.

Used on Wage-Hour Act.

The petition method, the only way in which members can pry bills loose from recalcitrant committees, was resorted to by administration forces to gain action on the wage-hour act. It has been successfully invoked in anti-lynching and bonus legislation.

By placing the petition on the speaker's desk, Anderson will put house members "on the spot." They will be confronted with demands of foes of the act to sign the petition, and by its friends to refuse to sign.

"The 30 days since introduction of my bill, which must elapse before a petition is started, have passed," said Anderson. "I will put the petition on the speaker's desk in a few days, perhaps this week.

"We are blocked by the labor committee. It is not going to hold hearings on any labor bills. If the discharge petition is signed, the house can consider my bill, amend it, or it can substitute the American Federation of Labor bill for revision of the act.

"There is widespread demand for revision of the law. I feel confident that a majority of the house will sign the petition, call my bill to the floor, and open up the whole question."

Anderson's bill, he explained, would take from the National Labor Relations Board the power of acting as prosecutor, judge and jury in cases where it seeks to enforce the collective bargaining provisions of the Wagner act.

TOLD OF DEATH

Bucyrus Learns of Demise of State Examiner.

BUCYRUS — Funeral services were being arranged here today for Lank M. Smith, 69, state sales tax examiner for the Youngstown district and former editor, publisher and Democratic leader here.

Mr. Smith, who had lived in Youngstown for the last three years, died suddenly at his home in the Telton apartments, Youngstown, Tuesday night after a brief illness of pneumonia. He took ill at his office Saturday afternoon and was removed to his home, where it was determined that he was suffering with pneumonia.

Mr. Smith came here from New Washington when a young man and shortly afterward established the old Crawford County News, a semi-weekly newspaper. Later the paper was changed to the Daily Forum, which he served as busines manager until it consolidated with the Bucyrus Evening Telegraph into the Telegraph-Forum in 1926. During his latter

He played all of the infield posts with the Louisville team of the American Association last season.

French already has obtained his release from Louisville for whom he has played for three years.

His salary was not disclosed, but Cohen stated the "contract will make him the highest paid manager in the league."

His only experience as a manager was obtained last year as an assistant to Bert Niehoff, who piloted the Louisville club. He hit .223 in 78 games last season, and was one of the leading fielders at the positions at which he played.

French will take over his duties early in April but he is expected to bring his wife and two children to the city to establish a residence before then.

Cohen also announced today that the Mansfield club will train in Findlay. Much work must be done to prepare the Fairground where the home games will be played and Cohen obtained permission to establish training quarters in Findlay where his team will share the field with the team that represents that city in the circuit. The camp will open about April 10.

Damon (Buzz) Wetzel, former Ohio State football star, who was recently signed as business manager, is expected in Mansfield next week.

The Ohio State league season will open May. 3.

DISPUTE UNSETTLED, PICKETING OF SCHOOL PROJECTS CONTINUES

With the dispute over employment of non-union men still unsettled, pickets were kept on the remodeling projects at the Carpenter and West Fifth street school buildings today by Local No. 637 of the Plumbers' and Steamfitters' union.

Officers of the union said no attempt had been made to reach an agreement with E. F. Malone who holds the contract for installation of plumbing equipment in the buildings.

Pickets were placed on the projects two days ago when a non-union man was employed at the West Fifth street school. No attempt had been made today to remove the four plumbers and helpers from the two jobs, union representatives said.

L. T. Hout, president of Local Union B-688, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, announced today that about 37 employes of the Mansfield Telephone company were organized at a session last night at union headquarters.

He said the new membership represented "nearly 100 per cent of the linemen, switchers and truck drivers" employed by the telephone company.

Organization of the telephone workers boosted total membership of Mansfield Local B-688 of the union to 90, Hout said. The union obtained a charter here in 1917. The organization is an American Federation of Labor affiliate.

Hout said the union already had closed shop agreements with three electrical supply dealers and contractors in Mansfield and another in Shelby. He listed the Richland Electric, National Electric and Raby Electric companies, Mansfield, and the Citizens Electric company, Shelby.

SEEK TO AVOID CONGRESS TIFF OVER 3RD TERM

Senate Bloc Urging Holt to Drop Resolution to Restrict Candidacies.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Several middle-of-the-road senators were reported authoritatively today to be trying to avoid a controversy over a third term for President Roosevelt.

They were said to have urged Senator Holt (D., W. Va.) to abandon his proposed resolution to put the senate on record against a third term. Holt, however, declared he would introduce it later in the session.

Well-informed persons said the group opposing a showdown was headed by Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.), a leader in the successful battle against the Roosevelt court bill two years ago.

Wheeler and some other Democrats who have opposed various administration measures were described as believing that senate consideration of an anti-third term resolution merely would increase party bitterness and dampen Democratic prospects for 1940. Friends said Vice President Garner shared this view.

Roosevelt 'Not Bothered.'

One senator told reporters he had information that Mr. Roosevelt was little concerned by the Holt proposal, and that he would not urge his capitol lieutenants to oppose it.

Senator Minton (D., Ind.), an administration supporter, said an anti-third term resolution undoubtedly could be defeated, but that it would be useless to consider one. Minton said he was confident the president did not want a third term.

Holt said he expected administration senators would try to bottle up his resolution in a committee. He added, however, that he would insist on debating it and would demand a roll call vote.

Absence of a direct statement by the president on the third term question is described by Democratic politicians as one of the three factors slowing up party harmony efforts.

The other, they said, are puzzlement over the possibility that Mr. Roosevelt is grooming Secretary Hopkins to succeed him, and a strong difference of opinion in Democratic ranks over administration spending policies.

ASKS COURT OK

Chief to Confer With Judge on Plan to Notarize 4 Officers.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates today said he would confer with Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston to have four officers of the police department notarized.

Besides himself, Bates said he would ask to have all three shift captains made notary publics in order that sworn statements could be taken from witnesses when court attaches are not available. The other officers are Capt. T. M. Bell, Capt. John Miller, and Capt. Jesse Schwab.

Bates said that with officers notarized he expects to expedite the handling of accident cases involving injuries and build up a "concrete" case for court.

TRAFFIC FINES HIT $445 TOTAL

February Figures Get Back to Average, Though Only Half of Same Time Last Year.

Mansfield autoists paid $445 in fines last month because of traffic "mistakes," the most in any one month for a year, police records showed today.

Due principally to a stringent enforcement campaign by police, which saw the inauguration of the "cycle patrol," the collection total boosted February back into a "normal" classification, although it was only about half of the all-time high of $819 in February of last year.

The six-week old traffic enforcement program has been aimed particularly at the parking violations. Collections were eight times those of last November, when the total was $55.

Collection during the past month were $160 more than in January.

The "patrol," with two officers checking the business district daily for parking violations was created on an order from Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist following an inquiry into the police department's activities in enforcing the regulations which last year showed a 40 per cent decrease.

CITY RENEWS CONTRACT FOR INDIGENT CARE

Hospital Agrees to Same Rate as in 1938 in Return for $150 Annual Water Fee.

The city of Mansfield today had renewed its contract with General hospital for the care of indigent patients and laboratory services at the 1938 rate in return for the payment by the hospital of $150 annually for its water and sewer rental.

Supt. A. O. Fonkalsrud said that the hospital board of trustees had agreed to the renewal of the rate of $4.25 a patient per day and a monthly rate of $115 for laboratory services. The board also agreed to pay $100 yearly for water supplied to the institution with an additional $50 for sewer rental.

Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist said the terms make the charge retroactive as of Jan. 1, 1939, and collection semi-annually.

Ends Month of Negotiations.

Acceptance by the hospital board trustees brings to a close more than a month of negotiations by Nist and council's finance committee.

The hospital board had sought an increase in rates when it was told that the institution would be billed for water and sewer rental.

City officials took the initiative of setting up the rates after state examiners for years returned finding because the city had not collected a fee for the water furnished "free" to the hospital.

It was pointed out that the hospital uses approximately $3,600 of water yearly, and that a sewer rental figured on that basis would amount to another $1,700.

The city paid the hospital $17,000 in 1938 for the care of indigent patients. It also pays the hospital staff physicians $5,000 annually.

Careless Word, Reading of Anti-Nazi Paper, These Crimes Send Citizen to Prison Hell

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A man who read an anti-Nazi newspaper, suffered the tortures of a German concentration camp—and escaped after two years—writes graphically of his experiences in a series of four exclusive articles for Central Press and The Mansfield News-Journal. This is the fourth and last story.)

By CARL HARDER
Escaped Prisoner From German Concentration Camp.

ERIE, Pa.—The oppressive heat of an August day lies over the moor, rising in scintillating waves from the dry heather, from the tall reeds, the dwarfed pines and the scraggly sloeberry bushes.

No sound of bird or cricket breaks through the hot stillness. There is only the monotonous buzzing of the mosquitoes which swarm about us. No breath of air stirs the grasses, and from the swampy ground rises the sticky odor of the moor.

No train or factory whistle, no automobile horn, reaches this lonely place. Unchanged, the swamps lie in the heat, as they have for thousands of years. And yet there are strange traces of the outside world. The barbed wire fence which, like a silvery serpent, cuts through reeds and underbrush, is new; the barracks, too, have not been here long, those barracks in which we twist and turn on our cots during sleepless nights when our dreams take us once more to the life that lies behind us, to safety, work and happiness, and families and friends.

Forbidden Newspapers.

But after such dreams the awakening is twice as hard—it is an awakening to the tragic fact that we are prisoners in a Nazi concentration camp, guarded by barbed wire fences, machine gun towers, brutal guards and miles and miles of moor.

We are Squad III. Our group consists of 15 men. Ernst, the printer, is the oldest; tomorrow is his birthday, and he will be 62.

Jupp, the sailor from a Rhine boat, is only 19—yet, in spite of his youth, he is already in a concentration camp. But why didn't he leave those newspapers in Holland after he had read them? Why did he hide them in his bunk so that he could show them to some friends? When they brought him here he wept during the first three or four nights. We tried to comfort him—no good. We tried to bawl him out—now he is our mascot, our ray of sunshine, who, with his rosy optimism, helps us through bitter, dark moments. We could not think of life without him.

We 15 men form a strong unit. No one evaluates work as that of an individual but only as part of the group. If some are lazy, we'll all get punished. We know that, and every one acts accordingly and does his utmost. It is self-understood that if someone is ill and breaks down, the remaining 14 have to make up for his share. We are all political prisoners, united in our resistance against our oppressors.

These Are Our Crimes.

Will, the next man to me, is an internationally known artist, German by birth. He came from London to visit his parents. To a small circle of friends he criticized the Nazi government and told them what England really thinks of it. This was reported to the secret police. He was arrested for inciting treason against the state. He has been here seven long months, of which each day meant desperate, exhausting hope for a freedom which will not come.

That man over there, the one with the gray beard, was once a foreman at Krupp's steel works. Entering the factory, he said, "Good morning" instead of "Heil Hitler"—now he is here.

Group of concentration camp prisoners on kitchen duty.

I myself read an anti-Nazi newspaper. The Westphalian farmer drove a government inspector off his property when he began counting the eggs. Two of us collected funds for Loyalist Spain. Theo, the Bible student, is a pacifist and refused military service. These are our crimes. That's why we are tortured and starved, physically, intellectually and spiritually. That's why we have to work daily in the swamps, fall, tired to death, upon our uncomfortable wooden cots, waiting, in despair, for a new day to break.

We have not stolen; we have not committed perjury; we have not done anything unlawful. But—we are not Nazi; our attitudes toward and our philosophies of life refuse to accept the bloody doctrines of Nazi dictatorship. So we are prisoners!

Dreaded Tomorrow.

We are working in the glaring heat of the August day. We push the shiny, pointed drainage spades into the dark, moist, warm ground—down—up, down—up. We must work faster today, for tomorrow is the check-off on the work quota. This ditch MUST be finished by tomorrow. Tomorrow is Ernst's birthday, and if the ditch is not finished, we shall get no soup—extra drill probably, as a punishment, or confinement in the dark.

But that must not happen—it would be a poor birthday for Ernst. Let's work harder, faster. What does it mean if our clothes, soaked with sweat, stick to our brains? What does it matter if the merciless sun dries out our brains? What does it mateer if the saliva in our mouths turns to a nasty, sticky slime? What does it matter if the inspectors give us a bigger, harder work-quota for the day after tomorrow? What is the day after tomorrow to us?

Hope of Holland.

In passing by, Jupp brushes against me, murmuring, "Way over there, where sky and moor meet, how far do you think that is?"

"I can't say that exactly. It may be 20 miles. But why the question?"

"Man, that is Holland!" he says hoarsely.

My gaze wanders into the distance. Holland! There men are safe; there lives an industrious, peaceful people, a people without an army, without concentration camps. And yet, only a few miles from it are watch towers, machine gun stations, barbed wire fences, and thousands of unhappy prisoners who, herded together, exist in hopelessness and despair.

Suddenly the doctor of philosophy collapses. His head has sunk upon the handle of his spade; his knees are trembling; he will fall down in a moment. Theo and Ernst rush to him; they put him down on the ground, gently. They dip their dirty handkerchiefs into the warm, reddish water of the swamp and put it on his forehead. After a while he comes to, gets up shakily and goes to his spade.

Dig Hole for Water.

If there were only drinking water! We did dig a deep hole, where the water collects gradually. We have covered the hole with branches and reeds, but the water is warm and has the repellent taste of the moor.

Hours pass. The sun sinks in the west. But we are still digging. Our feet burn; our stomachs ache with hunger. Only our will power keeps us up—the will not to give them a reason for punishing us, for tomorrow is Ernst's birthday. A day free from punishment is the only present that we can give him.

We reach the white post which is the goal for the work of the day. The sun has gone down, and the damp, cold fog rises from the moor. We shiver, as we march back—the long road back, to the barracks. Softly we sing our song. No one knows who made it up, who hummed it first, but in all the concentration camps in Germany the prisoners are singing it, and though it is forbidden to sing the last verse, they hum it wordlessly, and every heartbeat, every thought, joins with those of all fellow prisoners—

But this cannot last forever,
Our dawn will come some day,
And the light of blessed freedom
Will then fall on our way!

"SLANG SLINGING" SUCCESS

WATKINS, N. Y.—(U.P.)—When it comes to "dishing out slang," Edwin Barkman, son of former District Attorney and Mrs. E. C. Barkman knows his stuff. In a slang contest conducted at the University of Kentucky, where Barkman is a freshman, he took first prize.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD
Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach often pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in no time and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 1, 1939.

It is suggested that in mixing whisky and gasoline both should be put in the same container.

Word comes that the White House will submit no "must" legislation to congress this year—which, in itself is rather encouraging.

The Communist chant, as it is being passed around, goes like this: "Thirty days hath September, April, June and November; all the rest have thirty-one. Is that fair?"

Property Seizure Outlawed.

WHATEVER differences of opinion may have previously existed as to sit-down strikes, it is now made clear by the United States Supreme Court that such seizure of property is illegal and that employers are not obligated to reinstate strikers who engage in "acts of trespass or violence against the employer's property."

This decision, which sustains a common-sense viewpoint on the subject, may also serve to curb the arbitrary attitude of the National Labor Relations Board in matters that have tended to disturb industrial relations in a number of cities within the past several years—notably in Detroit, where sit-down strikes in automobile plants were tolerated by Secretary of Labor Perkins and Governor Murphy, now attorney general in the Roosevelt cabinet.

After all, this decision of the Supreme Court does little more than restate the rights of private ownership and control of property when it says: "These employes had the right to strike, but they had no license to commit acts of violence or to seize their employer's plant. To justify such conduct because of the existence of a labor dispute or of an unfair labor practice would be to put a premium on resort to force instead of legal remedies, and to subvert the principles of law and order which lie at the foundations of society."

It may be noted in connection with this decision that the sit-down technique was developed and encouraged under the CIO branch of the organized labor controversy and that leadership in the AFL has been consistently against plant seizure by employes.

Quick acceptance of the Supreme Court decision by some of those who had clung to the last to the sit-down idea, was seen in prompt evacuation of 400 strikers from a South Bend plant as soon as the decision was announced.

Aside from a comparatively few congenital malcontents and alien agitators who have injected themselves into the ranks of organized labor, it is safe to assume that the vast majority of American workers are sincerely interested in being law abiding citizens and in conducting themselves in a way that will serve the best interests of themselves and their employers—realizing that neither can carry on successfully without the other.

Democracy Must Be Earned.

SELF-GOVERNMENT, it appears, is something to be attained by human progress in education and intelligence, rather than by declaration or mandate.

Addressing the Institute of International Understanding, at Senior high school Monday evening, Prof. J. Fred Rippey, of the University of Chicago faculty, told of Latin-American dictatorships and semi-dictatorships and explained that several of these countries are gradually developing qualifications in citizenship that encourage hope of eventually becoming democracies.

A monarchy, dictatorship, or whatever the form of centralized authority may be, is based on the idea that a majority of people are not capable of self-government.

A democracy assumes that all citizens thereof are qualified to share in the responsibilities and obligations devolving upon them, and that it is their right to participate in choosing those who represent them in carrying on the affairs of government.

If, as in the case of some of the Latin American countries, where illiteracy extends to more than half the population, expression by a majority cannot be depended upon to reflect sound judgment or intelligent understanding, the need for a directing power is obvious.

Encouraging the experiment in democracy that has been under way in the United States for the past hundred and fifty years is the firm conviction that a considerable majority of the people of this country are capable of self government.

Holding to this conviction, it must then be contended that only a relatively small minority constitute the illiterate, the sub-normal, the habitually dependent and the criminal classes which cannot be safely entrusted with responsibilities of self government.

For those inclined to pessimism, there are still a number of factors in American life that argue against the practicability of democracy, including those groups which look to government for support without effort or thrift.

Viewed optimistically, however, and having regard for progress made during the past century and a half, it would appear that a constantly growing majority of the American people are developing qualifications for self government and that these may be safely depended upon to demonstrate to the world that a democracy can be made to function successfully, despite obstacles that stand in the way.

Profitable Puzzles.

THE jigsaw puzzle does not seem to be so much on the public mind as it was a few years ago. yet a concern in New York that makes, rents and sells such puzzles reports that 1938 was its biggest year.

This company maintains a free delivery and rental service. it charges 35 cents a week for 200-piece puzzles and $1.25 a week for those of 750 pieces. For 1,500-piece puzzles a deposit of $1 is required in addition to the rental charge.

Even more interesting are the custom-made sets. It is said that customers bring in everything from an oil painting to a hand-written note to be mounted and cut into puzzles. The pieces are backed with polished mahogany and are pleasant to touch and handle. They are intricately cut so that "there is charm to the sport" of putting them together in the right arrangement.

New Yorkers apparently go for all this in a big way, big enough at least to keep the company prosperous.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—It would take high odds to get a bet that any one of the evolutionary pension plans would get through this session but no busier band of operators can be found on Capitol Hill than the pension advocates in congress.

Senator Downey

Take Senator Sheridan Downey of California, as an instance. He was busier than a brush salesman the other day about the floor of the senate. One minute he was on one side of the chamber talking to Senator Bankhead. Almost any one knows that Bankhead couldn't be sold on Downey's old-age pension scheme, but the Californian never gives up. Bankhead ultimately retired with a good natured laugh, to the cloak room.

Within five minutes Downey was chatting with youngish Senator Clark of Idaho. Clark survived a Townsend attack in Idaho last year to unseat Senator Pope, a New Dealer, who moved from his $10,000 senate place to a $12,000 post on the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Downey is a "close-up" talker. He edges his chair over and sort of half whispers, even when there is no special need for it. It isn't that he is a secretive sort. He is just a mildish man in outward conduct on the order of Senator Sheppard of Texas who fought for 20 years to put across prohibition and has been fighting in his quiet way ever since repeal to have prohibition restored.

* * *

Changes Plan a Little.

DOWNEY'S arguments now are very much the same he used out in California to whip Senator McAdoo. (There's another who lost a $10,000 a year job, only to get something better as head of the reorganized Dollar steamship lines.)

Downey's original theme song was "$30 Every Thursday." He has modified it somewhat now to $100 a month for people over 60 years, just half what the Townsendites offer. But he has attachments to his plan. He would pay, say, $30 a month to people over 50 years.

His whole idea is to discourage so much saving, which he calls the bane of the country. He says the population saves something near 15 per cent of its earnings year in and year out. Such savings can't be spent for productive enterprises in times of surplus and cause a low demand for goods. His idea is that old people assured of a retirement fund wouldn't save for old age, thus eliminating some savings, anyhow.

Further, he says paying $30 to 50-year-olds would discourage them from saving so much for old age, so some more savings would be disposed of.

* * *

Knows His Economics.

SINCE coming to Washington, Downey has become filled with more economic lore than you could throw a stick at. He beards them all, at the Brookings Institution, in the government departments and wherever an economist may be found. In Washington that is on almost every street corner.

"They are all coming to agree with me," he says, in his confiding sort of manner, "at least when I have presented my case they don't have anything more to say."

He figures that 26,000,000 people are out of work. That includes the 10 or 12 million without any jobs at all, and an equal or greater number who are not occupied full time, such as dentists and lawyers who don't have enough patients or clients.

He once talked of forming a huge organization of old folks and their relatives who would like to see the old folks get a pension. It would be a formidable political organization. More recently he has been sort of passing over that part of it. California reporters insist it is part of his strategy and that he doesn't want to get his neck out too far this early. They think he harbors presidential ambitions.

Looking Into Building Costs.

The anti-trust division of the justice department is going to look into home building costs to see whether there have been any illegal combinations to fix or to hold up prices. It is announced that this is not to be undertaken particularly with the idea of "the uncovering of individual misconduct," but rather with the purpose of breaking down the cost structure generally.

For some time it has been recognized that the principal handicap to building was the cost both of labor and materials. Material men have insisted more recently, however, their costs, or at least some of them, have been reduced to certain degrees. But the situation remains substantially unchanged, including the hourly wage rates, for which no proposed substitute of annual pay has been acceptable.

Another factor should be taken into account. It is the government's policy on home building. Aside from the insured mortgage system under the FHA, this policy has been disturbing to the private industry. It has served to hold back construction, rather than promote it.—Kansas City Times.

THE WORLD LOVES A WINNER!

The Human Side of the News

—By EDWIN C. HILL

CHARLES M. SCHWAB has decided to close Immergrun, his summer estate, at Loretto, Pa. His Riverside Drive mansion is seldom open. The Richard Whitney mansion in East Seventy-Third street has been sold. One by one the old palaces of the nineties or the early years of the century have fallen before pick axe or steam shovel. This is the story in England, too. Rarely do passing generations move out in the world from under the same roof. In the industrial age, with its constantly quickening pace, great families do not take root as they did in the feudal centuries.

Our World's Fair will reveal to visiting millions triumphant achievements in architecture and housing. In the City of Tomorrow there will be dwellings of beauty, light, comfort, equipped with the magical convenience which the kindly genii of science provide for us. Re-housing America will be a brave new adventure of the next two or three decades. Our fair will be a curtain raiser on a truly marvelous advance in housing for families of small means, as well as in more costly and pretentious residential architecture.

ALL of which lies on the broad highway of progress, but there is a friendly old gentleman with a snuff box, powdered wig and buckled shoes who could show our guests some of our past achievements in the art of gracious living—lest we forget.

The island of Manhattan, green, forested, watered with friendly meandering streams, was a jewel of beauty, before it was engulfed in brick and steel. Today, Father Knickerbocker could conduct us to the stately old Jumel house, at 161st street and Edgecombe avenue, overlooking the Harlem river and the Polo Grounds. It was built in 1766, later purchased by Jumel, a French wine merchant. It was Washington's headquarters for a short period.

Soon after the death of her husband, the "Amazing Mme. Jumel," as her biography is titled, married Aaron Burr and this old house was their home. Some of Burr's furniture and personal belongings are included in the complete period furnishing of the house as we see it today. It has been taken over by the city and is open to the public. Its simplicity, grace and restrained elegance give eloquent testimony of our forefathers' taste and sophistication in the art of living.

So also was the charming Van Cortlandt mansion a country house. It is preserved today for the public in the great park in New York which bears its name. Of a later date, but no less interesting, is the old Roosevelt mansion in Manhattan, where Theodore Roosevelt was born.

* * *

THE "Old Merchant's House," built in 1829, stands, firm and four-square to a changing world in East Fourth street. Four generations of the Treadwell family lived there, from 1832 to 1933. Their furniture, their wearing apparel, their bric-a-brac, everything that made the old house a home through a full century are exactly as they were.

Seabury Treadwell was a successful merchant, anchored for a long lifetime against change in his beautiful, old house, with its great mahogany doors and marble fireplaces. This house also is open to the public and is a marvelously authentic exhibit of the best of urban living—the Jumel house was a farmstead—through all the Victorian decades.

The Gracie house, at Eighty-Sixth street and the East river, was built by Archibald Gracie, an astute Scotsman, who knew how to live. It is one of the best models of colonial architecture, meticulously furnished in the period. The smaller Dykeman house at 204th street is a charming example of the Dutch colonial.

Somehow one feels that these stanch and beautiful old houses should not be overlooked, if it is only a passing glance that the multitudes of visitors to the fair give to our city of yesterday. They stand straight and true and they tell of a day when somehow the home was more firmly based than it is in these uneasy years.

The Frick mansion, of simple, restrained beauty, with its insuperable art collection, will bring down to later years the story of a past in which we take pride. And in looking back, we need not fear the fate of Lot's wife. Any past worth remembering—and our's is—is not only useful but deeply essential in building a "City of Tomorrow."

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, March 1, 1919.

Ross A. Glessner succeeded William H. DeLong as ticket agent of Pennsylvania roadroad here.

Birth report: Son to Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Hall, 238 Wayne street; daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ohler, 72 Newlon avenue.

Storm and cold wave brought in March "like a lion."

Birthday party was given for Robert Witter.

E. F. Shupp moved to Mansfield from near Shelby.

"Looking toward 50,000, what should Mansfield do?" was a question being asked. (Extension of street railway system was among suggestions).

Herman and Henry Diskosky, twins, spent birthday anniversary in Cleveland.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, March 1, 1934.

The city debt was lowest in 15 years. After a payment of $26,000 the debt was $965,430.

Five hundred students at John Simpson high school saw the film "Ten Nights In a Barroom," shown at school.

E. H. Lindsey, 306 West Third street, celebrated his 80th birthday with a family dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Balph, 315 Ohio street, moved to West Ausdale.

Birth announcements: Son to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Garver, Olivesburg road; daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jones, Arch street.

Natchez Again Making Ready For Annual Pilgrimage

NATCHEZ, Miss. — The aristocracy of the Old South is once more making preparations for the opening of homes to visitors under the auspices of the Natchez Garden club, during the eighth Annual Pilgrimage, March 20-April 2.

Black hands, with the same reverance as their forebears who were slaves of the ancestors of "Massa" and "Missus" of today, are polishing silver and brass, shaking mothballs from rugs and brocatelles, and rubbing to a soft glow the mahagony and rosewood furnishings in the time-mellowed houses which will again welcome guests.

This quaint southern city, situated on a 200-foot bluff overlooking the Mississippi river, is now acknowledged as one of America's foremost historic shrines. Here still exists the cultural and historical background of the Southland. In the colorful legends of the gracious dwellings shown on the Pilgrimage tours is enshrined the history of the Natchez Country.

From the older, smaller houses, built in pioneer days and still occupied by descendants of the figures who made the history of the great southwest, to the stately, white columned mansions of the cotton planters who reached the peak of prosperity just before the War Between the States, may be traced the growth of a civilization from the wilderness.

Twenty-two houses may be visited during the Pilgrimage period, the oldest of which were erected in the early 1790's. Among the list are Melrose, Elmscourt, Oakland, Windy Hill Manor, Inglewood, Propinquity, The Briers, Cottage Gardens, Magnolia Vale, Melmont, Mount Repose, Edgewood, Pleasant Hill, Homewood, The Parsonage, Rosalie, Ravenna, Auburn, Belvidere, Hawthorne and Connelly's Tavern.

Evening entertainments are reminiscent of the social life of long ago—the Confederate balls and Pageants, candlelight soirees and musicales. Negro spirituals in old-fashioned churches and other appropriate features are scheduled.

Natchez is preparing for many thousands who will turn away from the turmoils and troubles of the present and step into the past during this picturesque interlude.

Editor's Note—Enjoyment of a motor trip south during March or early April can be materially increased by swinging westward through Memphis, then over the fine new highway to Jackson, Miss., through Vicksburg to Natchez; thence through Baton Rouge to New Orleans. This route carries along to Mobile azalea gardens and into Florida by way of Pensacola and Tallahassa.

How Good Were the Good Old Days?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THOSE "Good Old Days"—were they not miracles of happiness and harmony, comfort and efficiency?

"YES, THEY WERE NOT!" hoots Ethel M. Russell of Los Angeles, who is completely fed up with homesick blubberings for Grandma's Simple Life and thinks it time for someone to expose the back-breaking, jaw-jouncing, knuckle-skinning Truth. As well as a few facts which may help you appreciate TODAY.

"To hear most of my generation tell it," says Mrs. Russell, "you'd thing that life 30 years ago was one long, sweet song. Song, my eye! I spent the first 23 years of my life on a Michigan farm, and compared with what those housewives had to face a Sing-Sing rock pile is a SNAP.

"For a few cents a week my laundry is cared for today. Then I remember those ghastly winter wash-days when we skinned our knuckles over heavy woolen underwear which froze into flapping white skeletons before we could get it onto the line.

"In a few hours, with my vacuum cleaner, I can shine every inch of my house. And I think back to those awful housecleaning struggles . . . breaking our backs as we dug out carpet tacks and tried to beat six months' dirt out of the carpets . . . then the frantic struggle to tack them back over a pad of fresh straw. With Dad raving because everything was upside down for a week! And the kitchen floor, larger than a whole modern apartment, which had to be scrubbed snow white on our knees three times a week. The only thrill to house cleaning was to sleep on the fat high bed-tick the first night after it was filled with new straw.

"When I get in my car to go a few blocks I recall the long, slow ride to town in a lumber wagon loaded with produce and stiff white carcasses of freshly killed hogs, bumping over frozen roads which would jar the liver and lights out of me now.

"As I clean my shining bathroom I recall the old galvanized tub standing beside the coal stove, ready for the family's weekly ablutions . . . and shudder at the memory of even more primitive conveniences.

"And when I feel abused because I have to cook an extra large meal—for four!—most of which has been bought already prepared, I think of the days when I cooked for 15 or 20 threshers—starved, dusty, odorous, silent individuals who wolfed their food in great quantities. I see the rows of pies, loaves of bread, cakes, cans of fruit, jars of sausage, headcheese, pickles, pounds of butter churned for endless hours, all prepared by our own hands. And no one even bakes bread now!

"Go ahead and weep over your Dear Old Days—but give ME 1939 with its opportunities and conveniences; its hygiene and pure food; its night schools for adults; its paved roads, automobiles, radios, telephones . . . ITS TIMES FOR REST AND FUN. Maybe the 20th century HAS taken various industries out of the home—and glory be, say I. I HOPE IT KEEPS THEM THERE!"

Mrs. Ethel M. Russell,
Los Angeles, Calif.

Which same I'd like to clip and send to about 8,729,459 whining young Whosits who think they have it tough today because they have to miss the movie when the baby gets the colic! Wonder what they'd have said, "puttin' up" 50 quarts of tomatoes at a batch, on a July afternoon with the thermometer edging a hundred!

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Romance Everywhere.

There's romance in the dullest work,
If you but seek it out.
There's romance in the drabest day,
If you will search about.

The trouble is we will not try
To find this treasured thing,
And will not look beyond our tasks
To know what it could bring.

There's not a single small drab street,
There's not a single day
But holds within it some bright joy
Which leans romance's way.

A bit of romance as we go,
How fine the joy of it,
It shines in beauty through the dark
Like candles newly lit.

A Farmer's Diary

The Meadow Lark.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THIS morning I heard the strange, thrilling note of the first meadow lark of the season. The sun had risen high and was melting the ice and scattered snow on the eastern slopes, when the pleasing liquid song echoed through the little hollow.

Hardly had the first bird stopped for breath, when another, from a higher slope, rang out his ecstatic song. Then I heard still another far along the border of the woods. These birds were sitting close to sheltering tufts of grass, and were not visible even though close to my path.

Their yellow breasts, the varied dark brown coloring of their back and wings, the broad upward-pointing beak, blend perfectly with the drab coloring of the withered grass. I have often looked right down upon one, crouched close to the grassy soil, and did not see him, nor did a single motion betray his presence. Yet, when I had left the spot and walked away, I heard the song again.

To me, the meadow lark has the sweetest and most animated note of all our early songsters. He fills the quiet hills and valley with a flood of music long before the robin and the bluebird are seen about the pasture and the farm lot.

Although the wary lark is the ground bird of the fields, I have seen him fly into the air, singing beautifully. A fencepost is his most familiar perch. There one may see him every day in summer, pouring forth his melody.

Why he comes so early, when insects are not available and when hunger tears at his poor shivering body, I do not know. Often when heavy March snows are upon the fields, and a crust freezes, our little friend is buried and imprisoned. Last year I found four glazed completely over by the sleet, their feet frozen in a sheet of ice. They had sought the shelter of thick tufts of grass, in vain. When I uncovered them, I found some warmth about their bony bodies, which in every case fell limp and lifeless, unsupported by the icy armor. I hope this spring will be more favorable for our meadow larks.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—They launched a couple of new destroyers the other morning and the ceremonies were held at 8:25 a. m. That's an odd hour to celebrate christenings, and I was wondering myself why the invitations specified 8:25 when one of those present, a naval officer's wife, said, "Why so early, Jim? And why such an odd timing? Eight o'clock yes, or even eight-thirty, but eight twenty-five seems just too silly.

The officer looked at her pityingly, because to him it seemed that a navy man's wife should know those things. Then he said, "After all, my dear, even the United States navy can't control the tide."

* * *

A MANHATTAN jeweler hauled his watch out of his pocket the other day and, accosting a stranger, said, "Here is a watch worth $125. I will sell it to you for $5." The stranger looked at the jeweler, backed away from him, and fled.

"You see," explained the jeweler, who has written a book on the skepticism of people, "how wary most people are. You offer them something really valuable for nothing and they run from you. If that man had known anything about the value of watches and had taken me up on the offer I would have had to let him have it."

That is most certainly true. Once I had a lot of fun doing the same thing. A friend of mine named Ward Farrar, who is now the manager of Loew's theater in Indianapolis, and I went to a bank and purchased $100 worth of $5 gold pieces. Then we went out into the street and attempted to sell them for $4.50 each. We would walk up to a group of men and say frankly, "This is a $5 gold piece. I'll let you have it for $4.50." They looked at us as if we were crazy. Some of them even examined the coins. But invariably they shrugged and said they didn't want to buy any gold pieces.

We ranged up and down a busy street for nearly an hour, and finally a police car leaped up to the curb and several cops got out. They asked us what we were doing, and when we offered the same bargain they said we would have to come along with them. They took us into a bank and asked the officials to pass on the authenticity of the coins.

* * *

THE tellers looked at the coins and then at us. After making an examination of their own they thought they might be okay, but they were unwilling to make a positive statement. So they went in to see the president of the bank. He wasn't certain either. They had quite a lengthy huddle while Ward and the cops and I cooled our heels in the vestibule, waiting for a verdict.

They never would come right out and say the coins were legitimate tender. On the other hand, they refused to denounce them as counterfeit. We must have wasted an hour in the bank before the cops let us go. After the excitement died down we went back to our own bank, cashed in the gold for bills, and went home. We laughed over that a long time. Thinking of that now, how could you blame people on the street for being skeptical when even the president of a bank couldn't tell the difference between gold and bologna?

MEET TO NAME NEW PONTIFF

Cardinals Open Conclave as Doors Are Sealed; All of College Present.

They were exhorted in a sermon to choose a man worthy to be the vicar of Christ and reminded that the new Pope's task would be to lead the world back to "evangelical and Christian precepts" while the world is troubled by "social disorders and hatred among nations."

Ballot Tomorrow.

Cardinal Granito Pignatelli de Belmonte, elderly dean of the sacred college, said the mass.

The full college of 62 cardinals will start balloting tomorrow to elect a successor to Pope Pius XI. Today was devoted to ceremonial proceedings.

Among the 62 are Cardinals Leme of Rio De Janeiro and Copello of Buenos Aires who arrived by special train this morning from Naples. They were the first from South America ever to come to a conclave.

The United States cardinals to participate are O'Connell of Boston, Mundelein of Chicago and Dougherty of Philadelphia.

Monsignor Carlo Respighi, prefect of ceremonies, ordered deans of cardinal bishops, priests and deacons to meet in the hall of vestments with Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, camerlengo or interim administrator of the Vatican, Monsignor Vicenzo San Toro, conclave secretary, two dignitaries serving as witnesses, and the conclave architects.

It was their duty formally to inspect arrangements for closure of the conclave, in a wing of the Vatican.

The responsibility for closing the conclave from without was entrusted to Prince Ludovico Chigi Albani, hereditary marshal, and the conclave governor, Monsignor Alberto Alborio-Mells Di Sant' Elia.

Six Holding Lead.

More than a half dozen cardinals were considered by Italians to be among the "papabili" or likely candidates for the pontificate.

Elia Cardinal Dalla Costa, archbishop of Florence, headed most lists but Luigi Cardinal Maglione, former papal nuncio in Paris, was mentioned prominently in Vatican speculations.

Vatican prelates believed Cardinal Pacelli would get numerous first ballot votes in recognition of his handling of foreign affairs at Vatican secretary of state under PIUS XI. He is reputed to have expressed a wish eventually to retire into the holy orders.

Federico Tedeschini, former nuncio to Spain, has been mentioned for his profound knowledge of the international situation and his diplomatic ability and decisive character.

Frequently mentioned also were Pietro Boetto, archbishop of Genoa, and two members of the Vatican staff in Vatican city, Ermenegildo Pellegrinetti and Francesco Marmaggi.

Adeodato Piazza, patriarch of Venice, and Luigi Livitrano, archbishop of Palmero, were less frequently mentioned.

Extraordinary precautions were taken to keep the conclave secret. Excommunication even might fall upon the attendant or conclavist, (who each cardinal takes with him into the conclave) who betrayed any secret in connection with the election of the new pope.

EX-GREENWICH RESIDENT DIES

Mrs. Fannie Pond, 75, Was Former Postmistress, School Teacher.

NEW LONDON—Mrs. Fannie Pond, 75, former postmistress at Greenwich and school teacher for many years, died at her home here Tuesday after a long illness.

Mrs. Pond was born at Greenwich Center and taught school in that community for 42 terms. She was postmistress at Greenwich for six years. Eleven years ago she came to New London with her husband and lived here five years before going to Bellville where they operated a hotel for five years. They returned to New London about a year ago.

She is survived by her husband, A. B. Pond; a daughter, Mrs. Orvalette Gilbert and three grandchildren of this community; a brother, Wilson Brown, Willard; and a sister, Mrs. Mary Stewart, Bow, Wash.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday at the Sackett funeral home, with Rev. W. H. Mitchell, pastor of First Methodist church, officiating. Burial will be in the Greenwich cemetery.

CONTEST WINNERS FETED

Men and boys of the Mansfield Union Gospel Mission, winners of a recent attendance contest at the church, were feted by the women of the church at a dinner last night. The contest was held for the past four Sundays, with the women and girls as the losers. A program of games, contests and music by a colored quartet followed the dinner.

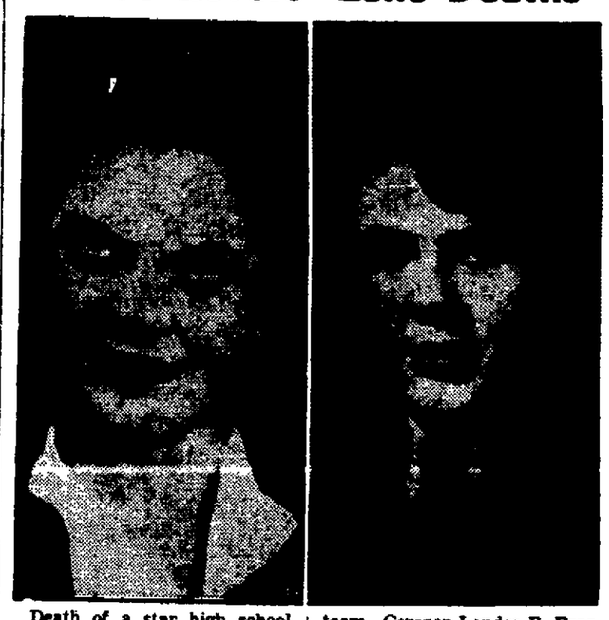
Probe Lovers' Lane Deaths



Death of a star high school athlete and his sweetheart on a Joliet, Ill., "lovers' lane" has resulted in a demand for a special grand jury investigation of alleged immortality at the Joliet high school. Ruth Virginia Underwood, 16, was found strangled to death near the body of William Engimann, 18, captain-elect of the school's football team.. Coroner Londos B. Brannon said Engimenn probably committed suicide by inhaling exhaust fumes from his automobile. The coroner said it was likely the husky youth had accidentally strangled the girl in a passionate embrace. School officials denied Coroner Brannon's charges of laxity at the institution.

JOHNNY APPLESEED SCOUTS WIN NATIONAL ACHIEVEMENT AWARD

The Johnny Appleseed Area council of Boy Scouts today was awarded the national Acorn award for 1938, given by Walter W. Head, president of the National Boy Scout council, Floyd Dent, area executive announced.

The award is presented in recognition of membership achievement, organization of new troops, and advancement within troops.

Only councils meeting these objectives are presented with the award. This marks the first time the Johnny Appleseed Area has received the special award. Only a few of them have been presented throughout the country, Dent said.

During the past year the area showed a membership increase of 33.2 per cent. Membership in 39 troops included 1,025 scouts and 100 cubs. The area goal for 1938 was 1,000 scouts in 38 troops.

Advancements in the rank of Eagle, Life and Star scouts will be conferred on 17 scouts at an area court of honor at 8 p. m. Thursday in the lodge rooms of the Elks home.

The rank of Eagle, the highest a scout can attain, will be conferred on Robert Houlette, 16, 57 Hoffman, and Richard Weaver, 16, 31 Sherman avenue.

Rank of Life scout will go to Eugene Au, Darrell Nichols, James Curry, Robert McManes, and Robert Burns all of Mansfield; Jack Lentz and George James of Ashland, and Richard Claes of Shelby. Those who will receive the Star rank are William Dietrichson, William Leonard, Thomas Schacher, Joseph Gentille, Ralph Stanton and Leland Brubaker all of Mansfield.

Four Eagle scouts will receive their silver and bronze palms. Thomas Sutter of Shelby will be given the silver palm for earning 15 merit badges over the required 21 needed to become an Eagle scout, and Fred Lavender and Floyd Myers of Mansfield and Kenneth Sherer of Galion will receive the bronze palm for earning 5 merit badges over the required number.

J. Leo Hartmann, chairman of the area court of honor, will preside.

Landfair Boosted in Liquor Department Shake-up.

Robert N. Landfair, of East Mansfield today was named chief enforcement officer of the state liquor department's Toledo division, which includes Richland county, as six of the 13 district offices were abolished by Liquor Administrator Jacob B. Taylor.

Landfair two weeks ago was transferred from Canton to Sandusky, one of the offices which was discontinued today. All work conducted by the Sandusky office has been transferred to Telod.

Taylor reported that the redistricting of the enforcement division would save the state $25,650 a year in salaries and rentals.

Besides Sandusky, offices were closed in Dayton, Portsmouth, Steubenville, Youngstown and Zanesville. Their work has been transfererd to Akron, Canton, Cleveland, Cincinnati and Lima.

He added that Trades council would be willing to name a committee to meet any time with a CIO committee to discuss a union of the city's labor units.

AWAIT ROOSEVELT SIGNAL

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Rival leaders of the A. F. of L. and the CIO, representing upwards of 7,000,000 workers, awaited only a signal from President Roosevelt today to begin a joint search for peace in the labor movement.

Either the president or Secretary of Labor Perkins is expected to arrange this week for a preliminary meeting at which the time and place of the formal conferences will be selected.

The conferences, in response to a presidential request to close the breach between organized workers, will be the first between the two groups since October, 1937.

CIO President John L. Lewis acted yesterday to make possible the renewed negotiations by appointing three CIO negotiators to meet a similar committee named Saturday by A. F. of L. President William Green.

In a four-line letter to Mr. Roosevelt, Lewis accepted the president's invitation and picked as the CIO negotiators himself and two vice presidents, Sidney Hillman and Philip Murray.

Many labor men and politicians expressed surprise that Lewis designated himself as a negotiator, but associates explained that he decided to participate actively because the A. F. of L. had charged him with wrecking the last peace conference from behind the scenes.

Green said he had no knowledge of plans for the conferences, and expected only that the two sides would meet to try "to find a way to close the breach."

Recluse Neighbors Aided Had $12,000 in Banks.

WHEELING, W. Va.—(U.P.)—Neighbors who felt sorry for old Charley Carleson, a recluse, because he apparently had nothing except the few meals they took to him and the aid he got from a private relief association, were surprised today to learn that he had $12,000 on deposit in banks.

Carleson had hardly enough to eat and he seemed to be losing his health, so they appealed to the department of public assistance. When a relief investigator called at old Charley's one-room shack on Feb. 20, she found the 70-year-old recluse dead.

Today an investigator disclosed the large bank deposits.

Only partly successful in their attempt to obtain payment of $66,000 in back wages, the men emerged from the mine last night.

SET LAND VALUE

ASHLAND — Deliberating only 35 minutes, a common pleas jury here awarded Merrill J. Sloan and J. E. Sloan $820 as the "fair value" of land appropriated by the city of Ashland for a sewer extension project.

The suit was brought in common pleas court here when the litigants, the city of Ashland as plaintiff and the Sloans, as defendants could not get together on the value of the land, and decided to put the question to a jury.

COUNCIL TO ACT ON SALARY BILL

Gives Measure Asking for Increases for Patrolmen First Reading Monday.

SHELBY—The salary ordinance for the Shelby police department is expected to be brought before city council Monday night for its first reading, city officials disclosed today. The ordinance was discussed by the council last month.

At that time the figures in the ordinance were not revealed, but Mayor D. B. Young said that the ordinance would give a slight increase to the patrolmen over their present salaries. The ordinance was presented at the meeting by Police Chief Leroy Coffey and was held over until Monday night for action.

Council will also have before it the third and final reading of an ordinance amending the city's parking regulations. A motion for its third reading was made at the last council meeting by Councilman Kenneth Rothlisberger, but no second to the motion was made at that time.

The ordinance, if passed, opens a no-parking area on South Gamble street, from the first alley south of West Main street to Wall street, city officials stated. The first two readings of the council were passed on a split vote of 3 to 2.

Repair Sewer to Halt By-Passing of Raw Sewage

The city's sewer department today was repairing a sanitary sewer on Vennum avenue to eliminate the by-passing of sewage into Ritter's run.

The by-passing of raw sewage was discovered yesterday by City Plumbing Inspector Fred Haag as workmen tapped the line for an outlet for the new Johnny Appleseed high school.

Officials in the sewer department announced a new section of pipe would have to be placed in the line which had been purposely broken three years ago to provide an outlet when the sewer became clogged.

George Bolesky, superintendent of sewer maintenance, said he had learned that the sewer had become stopped up at that point and to avoid cleaning, the opening had been made.

He said he expected to have the condition remedied today.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

MANY CLUBS MEET FOR VARIOUS ACTIVITIES

Cards Occupy Smaller Groups Gathering at Mansfield Homes; Organizations Plan Social Affairs In Early March.

THAT preview of spring yesterday was excuse enough for all kinds of meetings, parties and study sessions. So, naturally, many of Mansfield's groups were in session. Mrs. Philip Walter, who lives at 339 First avenue, opened her home to members of the Knotty club when they played cards at two tables.

Prizes were won by Mrs. Bryan Snyder and Mrs. Anton Schultz. Mrs. Ralph White, East Third street, will entertain the group on March 14.

* * *

One guest, Mrs. R. J. Croskey, was present last night for the meeting of the Valencia club at the home of Mrs. Myrtle Aungst, South Diamond street. Bridge was played and prizes were won by Mrs. W. F. McFadden and Mrs. J. D. Phillips. The next meeting will be March 14 at Mrs. Phillips' home on Park avenue west.

* * *

Members of the Social Crochet club played Chinese checkers and sewed yesterday when Mrs. George Guiher, Oak street, entertained. A luncheon was served by the hostess, and Mrs. William Harrison invited the club to her home, 8 Schmidt court, on March 14.

* * *

Miss Mildred Crum was welcomed as a new member of the Tuesday Night club when members of that group met at the home of Mrs. A. E. Kushin on West Fourth street yesterday evening. Mrs. Dale Uhlich, Mrs. Joseph DeYarmon and Mrs. Russell Seymour were recipients of the prizes. The hostess served refreshments at the small tables at the close of the evening. Mrs. J. C. Alexander has invited the group to her home on Dunbilt court for the next meeting on March 14.

Bridge was in play at two tables yesterday evening when Miss Sue Oakes entertained members of the Varieteers Bridge club and one guest, Mrs. Robert Kennan, at her home on West Dickson avenue. Mrs. Robert Davis won the high score prize for the evening. The small tables were decorated with green and white appointments, when refreshments were served later. A covered-dish dinner will be an event of March 14 at the home of Miss Marjory Ruhlen, Greenwood avenue.

Mrs. Hagelbarger Has Session of Ruth Class

There were 19 members and two guests, Mrs Carl Else and Miss Mazie Birmelin, present for the meeting of the Ruth Circle class of the First Christian church at the home of Mrs. B. F. Hagelbarger, West Third street. The business was in charge of Mrs. D. B. Wolfgang, who, with the help of Mrs. George Brooker, assisted the hostess.

Plans were made for the annual mid-winter picnic of the class to be held March 10 at the church. Mrs. Early Penney led the devotions. Contests were conducted and Mrs. Carl Laubscher, Mrs. O. J. Fink, Mrs. Stanley Buchter and Mrs. Penney were the winners. The next meeting will be March 28 with Mrs. Sherman Stone. Mrs. Lester Downs and Mrs. Charles Beer will assist.

Ruth Sewing Circle Has Luncheon-Bridge Party

There were 70 members of the Ruth Sewing circle present for a covered-dish luncheon at the Masonic temple yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Mrs Ruth Wiseman and her committee were in charge of the arrangements. Mrs. Helen McFadden, newly-elected president of the organization, conducted the business session.

The group played bridge during the afternoon, and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Helen Marks and Mrs. Elizabeth Smythe. Mrs. Ruth Domer and her committee will be in charge of the March meeting, the place and exact date of which will be announced later.

Chi Sigma Sets Date For Dinner At Hotel

Final plans for initiation ceremonies and a dinner party were made yesterday evening when Miss Florence Nail conducted the regular business session of the Chi Sigma sorority in the Chinese Room at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Miss Wilma Snider will be in charge of arrangements for the party, with the Misses Mary Strater, Ruth Zelenka, Naomi Stutz, Mary Elizabeth Miller and Florence Nail assisting her. The affair will be an event of March 28 in the Chinese room at the hotel.

The group also discussed plans for their annual St. Patrick's benefit dance, which is sceduled for March 18 in the ball room at the hotel, with Tommy Van and his orchestra furnishing the music for dancing from 10 until 2 o'clock.

Tuesday Book Club Will Entertain Next Month

Plans were made yesterday for the guest meeting of the Tuesday Book club which will be held March 14 at the home of Miss Kathleen Sturges, Overlook road. Mrs. Walter C. Stevens will assist, and Miss Thelma Slack of Ashland college will give a dramatic program. Members met yesterday at the Women's club with Mrs. W. Herbert Rusk, and Mrs. D. R. Baker of Hamilton was a guest.

Mrs. C. G. Hillier reviewed "The Ramparts We Watch" by Major George Fielding Eliot. She illustrated the book which deals with an American defensive program with maps. Tea was poured by Mrs. L. J. Ott and Mrs. Albert Strickler, a new member.

Guest Speakers Give Program At Hedges

Mrs. Howard Miller and Frend Boals were guest speakers at a meeting of the Hedges Street School Mothers club yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Miller told the group of the origin and activities program of the Girl Scouts, and Mr. Boals spoke about the Safety club.

The musical portion of yesterday's program was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Moats, who played several duets on the piano and musical saw. The Mothers club presented Mr. Boals and members of the Boys' Patrol with gifts of recognition for their services. Mrs Glenn Pore and her committee served refreshments at the close of the afternoon.

Entertain Five Guests At Church Class Meet

There were 17 members and five guests, Miss Edna May Boswell, Mrs. George Boswell, Mrs. Avery Dise, Mrs. Martha Dellenbaugh and Mrs. Hayes Braker, present yesterday at the regular monthy meeting of the Earnest Workers class of the Park Avenue Baptist church. Mrs. W. K. Dise, 334 South Main street, was hostess. The devotions were led by Mrs Floyd Bellnap and Miss Hazel McMeeken was in charge of the business.

Contest winners were Miss McMeeken and Mrs. H. E Meese A Prof. Quizz program followed with Mrs. Gertrude Kaufman in charge. Luncheon was served at the close of the program. The next meeting will be March 28 at the home of Mrs. George Hunter, 572 North Mulberry street.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties.

BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep.

So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders.

You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

IN SPITE of the fact that we're all pretty hopeful about the proximity of spring (and especially since this first day of March came in somewhat like a lion, which should be a fairly good indication that the lamb is close on its heels) . . . two Mansfielders left for Florida early this morning to remain until they're sure that winter is definitely a thing of the past—Mrs. J. C. Stout and Mary Key will be spending the next few weeks in the south.

Ability for leadership seems to be a definite part of Glenn Thomas' personality. Glenn (son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Thomas) moved to Cleveland from Mansfield about two years ago . . . and was recently elected president of his class (12-A) at John Adams high school there. He is also president of the Adams branch of the National Honorary society and managing editor of the John Adams Times—Glenn served as president of the 12-B class last semester. When he lived here, Glenn attended Western Avenue and John Simpson schools. . . . His brother and sister (Dudley Thomas and Mrs. Clare Casto), who still reside in Mansfield are quite proud of him—and rightly so, indeed.

MR. AND MRS. S. B. WHITE have just returned to Mansfield after spending the past seven weeks vacationing in the south. The Whites drove down to New Orleans, La., and then toured the state of Florida—stopping off for quite some time at St. Petersburg and Ft. Lauderdale. They also took in the Tampa exposition and sailed over to Cuba for a few days.

Today (and, in fact, the rest of the days this week) are important ones for Helen Isaly. She entrained for Philadelphia, Pa., this morning. While there, Helen will attend the inter-fraternity ball on the University of Pennsylvania campus. She will be the guest of John (Bud) Davey—who's a junior in the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce there this year.

HINT TO THE HAT-WISE: An old adage maintains that the proof of the pudding is in the eating . . . and so it would seem that the proof of the hat is in the wearing. . . . It has long been a favorite sport among men to ridicule and poke all manner of fun at women's hats—but finally one man has come forward with a word of defense and a few constructive criticisms. Richard T. F. Harding, Cleveland Plain Dealer columnist, recently commented that it's not the hat but the manner in which it is worn that is so often at fault. . . . It's no wonder that mulady looks a little queer in her new spring bonnet—if she perches a chic model, which requires a decided angle in placement, straight on her head like a flat sailor . . . or perhaps she loses all the style of her hat, which was fashioned with a downward tilt over the eye, by wearing it too far on the back of her head. Thus it would seem that the best rule to follow is to wear it as the milliner advises—for only then will your bit of flowers, felt and straw become a hat worth envy and admiration.

It was reunion in Cleveland this week for a number of Mansfielders and ex-Mansfielders. Dr. W. W. Ankenbrand, who used to be superintendent of schools here and now is in Yonkers, N. Y., and a number of friends from here got together. Among those who delivered greetings from Mansfield in person were Superintendent and Mrs. W. L. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. F. David Boals, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Lindsay, Principal George Harmony and numerous others.

GETTING back to hats. If you're looking for a new coiffure to offset your hat—better look at Mary Lou Hout's new one before deciding on any other definite style. She is wearing it in a page boy fashion, with the hair over the temples drawn back and held with a perky black ribbon bow. Mary Lou has her hair parted on the side with two rolls of curls on the heavy side . . . By the way, Juanita Miller is the smart young lady who designed and arranged the style for Mary Lou.

HEAR HOBBYIST

A. M. Colby, Mansfield hobby enthusiast, will address members of the Mansfield Schoolmasters' club at a dinner meeting Wednesday, March 8, at the First Methodist church.

Colby will speak on "Hobbies," and will display his collection of famous autographs. The dinner will be served at 6 p. m.

J. C. Stout is program chairman for the meeting and L. C. Baumgardner is dinner chairman.

Guest Luncheon of Travelers to Be Held March 14

Plans for a guest luncheon to be held at the Women's Club March 14 were made yesterday afternoon at the Club when members of the Tourists club met. Mrs. G. J. Kochenderfer and Mrs. Sidney L. Palmer will be guests, and Mrs. Helen Loomis Linham is scheduled as guest speaker.

Three talks were offered yesterday, one on the safety patrol by Frend Boals, one on Australia by Mrs. C. W. Fritz, and one on Madagascar by Mrs. C. V. Gates substituting for Mrs. Frank Hughes. "One-third of the people cause two-thirds of the accidents," Boals told his audience when he spoke on the safety clubs, patrol and pre-school training.

Mrs. Fritz told of the natural resources, flowers and cities of Australia, and Mrs. Gates explained the cattle raising industry of New Zealand, saying "Madagascar is the traveler's hell and the botanists' paradise."

Future Activities On Program of Sorority

Plans for future activities of the sorority were formulated yesterday evening when members of Beta Sigma Phi met at the home of Miss Barbara Keene on Sherman avenue. Miss Ardis Linzee was appointed chairman in charge of arrangements for the Founders' day dinner to be held April 30, and Miss Jane Bacon will conduct the Mother's day program.

Mrs. Gene Zediker was named chairman of the nominating committee, with the Misses Dorothea Grimes and Betty Hout assisting her. A paper on gardening was presented during the program by Miss Hout. Ernest J. Wessen will be the guest speaker at the meeting of March 14 at the home of Miss Aleen Hughes, Brinkerhoff avenue.

Welcome New Member To Fortnight Club

Members of the Fortnight club welcomed Mrs. J. B. Lindley, jr., as a new member of the group last evening when they met at the Women's Club. There were 12 members present for the meeting, with Miss Emma Waring acting as hostess.

During the evening's program, Miss Alice Sloane spoke on "History Makers of Today." She told the group of the outstanding political figures in all the important countries of Europe, as well as Franklin D. Roosevelt, the late Pope Pius IX, and Albert Einstein. The annual club party, which was formerly scheduled for March, has been postponed until April.

STUDY GROUP PLANS PARTY FOR HUSBANDS

Dr. Anspach Will Be Guest Speaker at Meeting Scheduled for March 11; Members Present Papers During Session.

SINCE the recent reorganization of the Child Study club, members have been exceptionally active in planning future events, and preparing for social functions of the group. Last night at a meeting at the home of Mrs. William Riester, 23 Gibson avenue, the members made final arrangements for the party to be held March 11.

The affair, which will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Todd, 400 Park avenue west, is for both members and husbands, and Dr. C. L. Anspach of Ashland college is scheduled to speak.

Mrs. R. D. Evans assisted Mrs. Riester last night, and Mrs. Warren Fort, a guest, poured when refreshments were served from a table decorated with pink tapers and sweet peas.

Mrs. Keith Miller was program chairman, and she presented Mrs. Robert McCaffery who reviewed "Wee Gillis" by Munroe Leaf. "Hunger Strike" was the name of the paper presented by Mrs. Clarence Beddard. "Fast Changing Job of Parenthood" was the subject of the paper by Mrs. Jay B. Simons. A discussion followed.

The next meeting will be March 28 at the home of Mrs. Miller.

ROUTINE SESSION.

At the routine business meeting of the Joan of Arc circle, Daughters of Isabella last night the charter was draped for the late Mrs. John M. Woerth. Plans were discussed for participation in the national membership drive, and it was announced that the group would meet again March 14 in the club rooms in the Bird building.

Plan Party At Meeting Of Carriers Auxiliary

When members of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Letter Carriers' association met yesterday evening at the home of Mrs. C. E Palmer, Wood street, they made plans for a party to be held in celebration of the 12th anniversary of the organization. The party will be an event of March 31 in the pavilion at North Lake park. Mrs. Harold Lersch, Mrs. Harry Eyerly and Mrs. Arthur Beidelschies are the chairmen in charge of arrangements at that time.

There were 13 members and one guest, Mrs. Carl Seitz, present for last evening's meeting, when the group played card games. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Lersch, Mrs. Beidelscheis and Mrs. Roscoe Traxler. The next regular meeting of the auxiliary will be held on April 25 at the home of Mrs. D. G. Schooley, 460 South Main street.

No Home Causes Unhappiness

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A girl's club called "The Portias" wrote me through their secretary:

"You must have had thousands of letters from unhappy husbands and wives—people who are either divorced or on the point of getting a divorce. What, in your judgment, is the greatest source of unhappiness in married life?"

I was about to give the blue ribbon to SELFISHNESS as the prime home-wrecker, when my eyes fell on the headline of a morning paper, reading: "Slack Home Ties Blamed on Divorces." And going on, I found that, according to the Rev. Carl Rasmussen, of Washington, D. C., the decline of the home is the prime factor of divorce.

He quoted a man as saying "Why should I buy a house when I have no need of it? I was born in a maternity ward, nursed in a public nursery, educated in a boarding school, married in a church. I work in an office, eat in a restaurant, sleep in a hotel, sit in the bleachers for my recreation, go to the hospital when I'm sick, and when I die, I'll be buried from a funeral parlor, Why should I buy a house."

The clergyman pointed out that "the home was once a vital economic necessity. It supplied its members with food and clothing. It also nourished them spiritually, providing religious and character training. The old-fashioned security was further increased by many children, who cemented the family ties."

These homes, where there were eight or ten children in the family, and where morning prayers followed breakfast as regularly as night follows day, produced some remarkable citizens. Character training was taken as a matter of course, so was discipline, and a sense of responsibility.

These splendid American homes, and dozens like them, seem to have disappeared almost as completely as the buffalo and the covered wagon. Cynically, the American home of today is described as one's telephone address, or the shelter adjoining the garage.

But what we have left in the way of homes, cramped though they are, is our most precious heritage and the hope of the country. Here's hoping that the "Portias" will learn to become good homemakers and not condemn their husbands to eat at the drug-store soda counter.

There are questions about cooking for two, managing household budgets and hints on furnishings which will be answered personally to such of the "Portias" who will send a self-addressed, three-cent stamped envelope.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, March 2.

A very lively and interesting day is forecast from a set of rather perplexing or complicated planetary aspects. In business and intellectual as well as social or sentimental affairs, all should be extremely active although attended by situations rather complex or intriguing. There may be sudden and drastic change in social, romantic or business affiliations.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a very lively and interesting year, with unusual and intriguing experiences both in business and private associations. There may be an element of the vague or mysterious adding to the pleasure of social or romantic adventures, or stimulating the mental, spiritual, or creative energies and faculties.

A child born on this day may have great versatility in cultural lines with its mental, emotional and creative facualties and forces under high and rather curious or indefinable stimuli. It may be inspired by music, poetry, art or literature, or in some peculiar romantic or spectacular manner.

Have you ever tried chilled drained canned Hawaiian pineapple gems—those delicious juicy, cut to fit the spoon pieces of golden fruit—atop shredded wheat biscuits or crisp corn flakes? Try this combination one of these fine winter mornings. It will boost the popularity of cereal at least 50 points. And don't limit the idea to the children's breakfast because father will like it also.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"OH!" I cried out sharply as Philip Veritzen quoted the dictum which his uncle, the king, had laid down for him in those far-off days of his tragic childhood. "How cruel! Why, that shut you out from all home and family life, and you just a small boy!"

"Yes, it was harsh," he said reminiscently. "But, looking back now, I do not think he meant to be cruel. He just couldn't bear the idea of having me around, a constant reminder of the fate to which he had sent his brother, my father. He wanted me to have every advantage his own son had, and he kept his promise; we were companions in everything else but our home life.

"For a little while I did not want it," he went on "I was so tired when my day was done, for the life of royal children is filled with studies and duties, that the only thing I wanted was the care of my loving old nurse, who, after an audience with the king, told me that I could talk to her when we were alone about my own mother, but that I must never forget my name was Philip Schaumbein.

"But after a little I began to feel the ban which separated me from Rudolph when he joined his family. The crown prince and I were very fond of each other. He had no brothers, and I think he rebelled as much as I when the close of each afternoon put us apart from each other.

"The men of our family are hard, but the women they marry are divine. My mother was loving and tender, and Noel's mother, whom I married after the tragedy of my young manhood was past, was the gentlest soul alive. And the queen of Transylvania, my uncle's wife, was also compassionate and loving toward the lonely child who was her son's playfellow. During my uncle's absences, increasingly often as the years wore on, she included me in the family circle, and it soon came to be an accepted thing that the only time I was separated from Rudolph was when his father, the king, was in residence."

"So the years wore away." Philip Veritzen went on, "and with them my childish grief for my mother was also eroded. Not that I ever forgot her, but a child cannot grieve forever, and I was comparatively happy in Rudolph's companionship, in the interesting life I led, in the affection lavished upon me by my nurse, and in the kindness shown me by the queen, Rudolph's mother.

"Then two crushing blows fell upon me within a few weeks of each other."

His voice faltered and stopped, as if the memories of those old days were too overwhelming for speech, even now. I waited breathlessly, not daring to make any comment, and after a second he went on.

"My faithful nurse died, suddenly. Then a few weeks later the king sent for me, and told me the secret he had kept for so long, the secret of that tragic death scene when my father had shot my mother and then himself in the cottage which had seen their first love tryst.

"'I am telling you this now, Philip,' he said, 'because you are now approaching man's estate, and cannot much longer be sheltered from idle tongues. Few know exactly what happened that night but many guess, and you might hear it anywhere. I prefer that you hear it from me, and I think you would prefer that way. Am I right?'

"'Yes, Sire. Thank you, sire,' I answered, thankful that I could keep my voice steady, and then I felt his hand on my shoulder again in a rare gesture of kindness.

"'You have pleased me very much during these years, Philip,' he said. 'Keep on as you have done, and there are few things you cannot have. The secret of your birth is safe, and I think I can promise you a place high in the government in the years to come. What would you like best to be?'"

New Ideas In Meat Courses

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

IS YOUR MEAT course a matter of course? Do you take it for granted it will be one long procession of steaks, chops and roasts? When you plan your menus, do you sit, pencil in hand, waiting for a bright, main idea that never seems to materialize? Then fill your idea basket from the supply offered in this column.

Orange Roast Pork requires two tablespoons flour, two cups fresh orange juice, salt, pepper, pork drippings and four pounds pork loin. Prepare pork and roast as usual. When three-quarters done, drain fat from roasting pan, add flour, salt and pepper seasoning and cook until lightly browned. Add freshly-squeezed orange juice, stirring well to avoid lumps. Cook five minutes and return to roasting pan; baste roast with orange sauce until done. For serving, pour sauce around the pork or put into separate serving dish. Garnish with parsley and orange slices. The sweet fresh orange juice gives an unusual fruit flavor to the pork.

Ham boiled in coffee is something new and something delicious. Scrub a smoked ham (10 to 12 pounds) and cover with cold water. Add two cups fresh ground coffee and bring to a boil; simmer gently until done, allowing 25 minutes to the pound. Let stand until cool. When partially cooled, remove skin, cover with brown sugar, stick with whole cloves and bake long enough to glaze.

Banana Meat Loaf.

Banana Meat Loaf requires one pound raw beef, chopped fine, one tablespoon chopped onion, two teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one cup soft bread crumbs, two-thirds cup mashed banana (two bananas), one-half teaspoon dry mustard, two strips bacon, three bananas, cut into halves, lengthwise or sliced crosswise. Mix meat, onion, salt, pepper, bread crumbs and mashed banana together. Add mustard moistened with a little water. Form mixture into flat roll. Place in greased baking pan. Cover top with strips of bacon for basting purposes. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about one hour. At the end of 40 minutes, place two peeled firm bananas, which have been halved lengthwise, on top or around loaf. Baste bananas and sprinkle with salt. Continue baking for 20 minutes or until bananas are done. Place under broiler two or three minutes to brown bananas on top. When serving, slice loaf and place portion of banana on each serving. Garnish with sprig of parsley and two half-slices of lemon. It serves six.

Barnburgers, despite their queer name, are delicious. The recipe requires one egg, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one-quarter teaspoon pepper, one and one-quarter cups milk, one cup all-bran, one pound ground round steak, two tablespoons finely-chopped onion, tablespoon chopped parsley and 10 slices bacon. Beat egg and add salt, pepper, milk and all-bran. Combine meat with onion and parsley. Add the soaked bran and mix well. Form into cakes about two inches in diameter and one inch thick. Wrap slice of bacon around each cake and fasten with skewer. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) for 30 minutes or broil for 20 minutes. The yield is five servings.

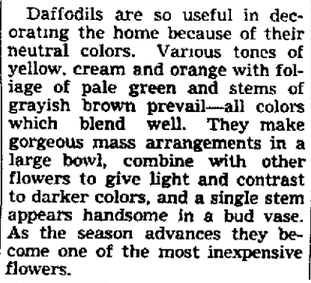
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

USE IT OR LOSE IT

AGAINST A HAND of proved freakish distribution, the problem of playing one of your aces on some early trick is likely to be a question of either use it or lose it by means of a ruff. Finessing against some intermediate honor in the dummy is then fraught with plenty of danger. Whatever tricks your side can get will be probably on the earliest rounds of each suit, so you had better hurry and give a good demonstration of why the old-time expert, Whitehead, invented the term "quick tricks."



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

North opened the bidding here with 1-Spade. East doubled and South gave a very good picture of his hand with 3-Diamonds, indicating lack of defensive strength but quite a diamond suit. He was Francis L. Wurzburg, canny New York publisher and member of the Metropolitan club team. After North bid 3-No trump, which as it turns out would have been a cinch to make, he hopped to 5-Diamonds, which East was pleased to double.

When West opened the heart 2, the 5 being played from the table, East thought himself right out of the set he could have scored by playing three successive aces, and presented the declarer with his contract. He decided not to set up both the dummy's K and Q, so finessed against the J by playing the 9. Of course the J won. A diamond was led to the A, the heart K covered by the A and ruffed, then another diamond to the 8 and the heart Q furnished a discard of the spade 5. All that East could get after that was two club tricks.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

If South makes a weak opening bid of 1-Heart here, West ventures a sickly 1-No trump, North doubles and East bids 2-Spades, what bidding should follow to get North and South into their best contract?

Today's Fashion

By VERA WINSTON

Here is an exquisite evening dress that is very flattering to the "form divine," but it should be worn only by those so favored. It is draped over the bust to one shoulder, where a choux is perched. At the opposite knee is another choux, like the shoulder one, lined in "shocking" pink. This tops a gathered flange which forms a slight train at the side back. It is in black and pink velvet.

Daffodils are so useful in decorating the home because of their neutral colors. Various tones of yellow, cream and orange with foliage of pale green and stems of grayish brown prevail—all colors which blend well. They make gorgeous mass arrangements in a large bowl, combine with other flowers to give light and contrast to darker colors, and a single stem appears handsome in a bud vase. As the season advances they become one of the most inexpensive flowers.

Prevention Best Cure For Freckles

By MME. QUI VIVE

Freckles are only as bad as you think they are. Lentigo is the correct name for freckles. The individual yallery polka dot is a lengtigine. The discolorations may be permanent residents or they may come in the summer time, flit when the leaves begin to fall. The old timers are stubborn. Though the victim of them may go through the ordeal of a skin peeling treatment, which leaves the skin fair and clear, they will pop right back upon exposure.

To hide away from sunlight would be like living in a cellar. We all realize the vitalizing processes of Mister Sol's warm caresses, which put pep in human beings of all ages. So, if freckles are constitutional, one might as well bear them with fortitude.

Freckles of the fleeting come-and-go variety can be kept under control to a certain extent. Keep the epidermal surface well lubricated. That's acting upon the same principle as putting butter in the frying pan so the food won't burn. Sunlight can't do much damage to an oiled skin. Use cream freely, especially in the early spring when fresh winds are blowing and the sun is getting ready for its summer business.

Don't use soap and water just before going out-of-doors or directly after coming in. Apply a foundation cream and a heavy powder. They will combine, form a barrier against the ultra violet ray. Remove makeup with a cleansing cream or thin oil.

There are mild bleaches that are safe. Lemon juice acts slowly, retards the formation of new spots. Peroxide, Vol. 17, is recommended. But the main thing is prevention.

Blending Raisins

Raisins, dates, currants and figs blend better with other ingredients and are improved in flavor if they are soaked 5 minutes in a little boiling water. Two tablespoons of boiling water for each half-cup of fruit is a good ratio.

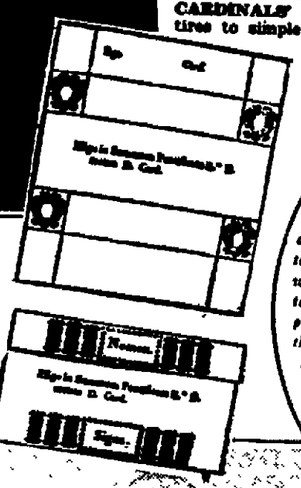
These Scenes Relived as Cardinals Meet in Vatican to Name Next Pope

FIRST STEP—This photo shows college of cardinals assembling in the Hall of the Consistory for their conclave and to listen to instructions from the marshal.

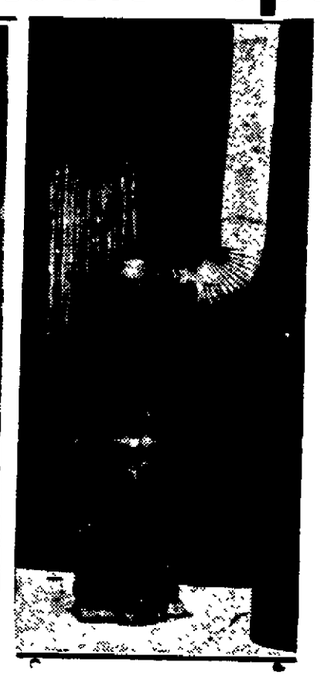
CARDINALS' QUARTERS—Informed of duties, each cardinal retires to simple rooms such as this in the Vatican where they are virtually "imprisoned."



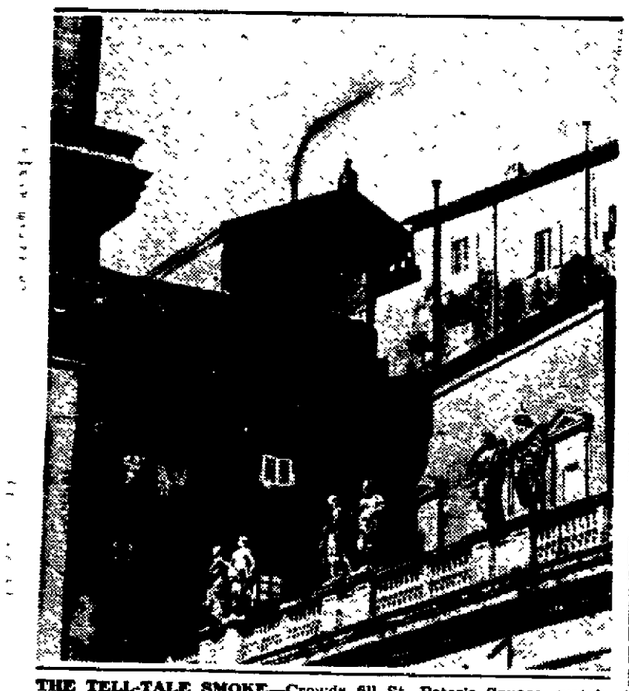
PAPAL BALLOT

The election of a new spiritual ruler of the world's more than 330,000,000 Catholics is a highly involved procedure, studded with centuries-old traditions and ceremonies. Once the cardinals have convened in the Vatican they are confined within the ancient structure until an agreement is reached and a new pope named and announced to the world. They are not permitted to discuss papal choices with others than fellow cardinals and are permitted to talk to outsiders through a small aperture and only with special permission and under strict observance. Food is sent in through closely guarded openings. During the conclave the cardinals are not permitted to be interested in activities other than the election, unless necessary to the defense of territories of the church. To be elected a candidate must receive two-thirds of the votes, not including his own. Election may be achieved through one of three mediums—by acclamation, by compromise and by ballot.

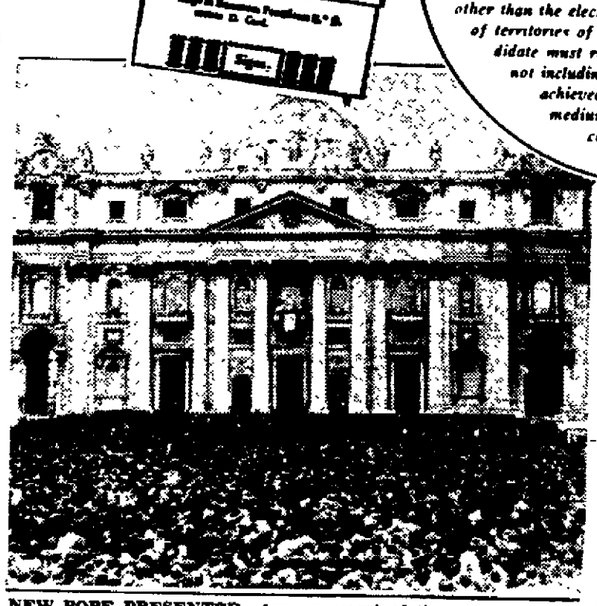
SISTINE CHAPEL—In this beautiful edifice, decorated by Michaelangelo, the cardinals convene to elect a pontiff



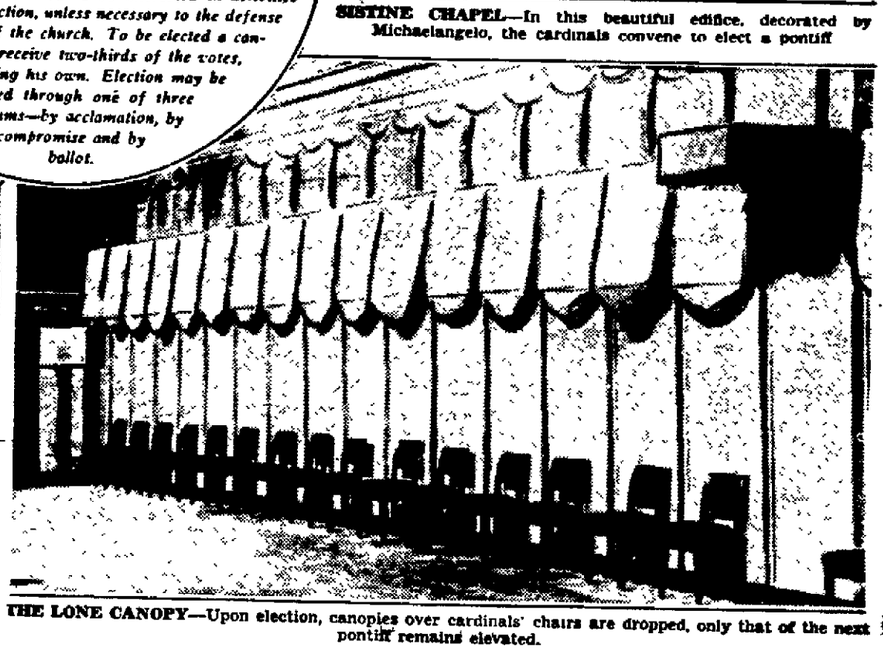
BALLOT STOVE—Here the cardinals' ballots after each poll are burned following tabulation.



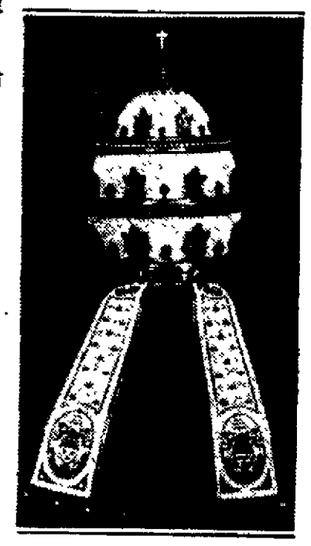
THE TELL-TALE SMOKE—Crowds fill St Peter's Square, watch the chimney at left. Black smoke—disagreement. White smoke—a successful election.



NEW POPE PRESENTED—Announcement of the cardinals' selection is made to faithful in St. Peter's Square.



THE LONE CANOPY—Upon election, canopies over cardinals' chairs are dropped, only that of the next pontiff remains elevated.



TRIPLE CROWN—This badge of office is worn by the supreme pontiff at solemn functions.

VENTURE IN OIL BRINGS MILLION

New Orleans Resident Takes 'Flyer,' Receives Profits in Excess of $1,000,000.

(By United Press)

NEW ORLEANS—Harry Fotiades, who gave up a small produce business in 1934 for a flyer in oil, is two-thirds retired with a profit estimated far in excess of $1,000,000.

Fotiades sold two-thirds of his holdings to the Lisbon-Iberia Oil Corporation of New York, but declined to name the amount, saying it was "between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000."

Fotiades was one of the promoters in the opening of the Leesville field. Later, after becoming an independent operator, he acquired holdings in the New Iberia and Jennings fields, and when the Lisbon field in North Louisiana was discovered, he acquired leases in that area.

Included in the transfer were rights to 1,000 acres of proved oil lands. More than 20 wells are flowing in the Lisbon field in Lincoln and Claiborne parishes, the Jennings field in Arcadia parish and the new Iberia field in Iberia parish. Daily production from the wells was 2,500 barrels.

Along with the land transfer went H. L. Hawkins of New Orleans, Fotiades' former assistant, who was made a vice president of the Lisbon-Iberia company and placed in charge of operations.

The former dealer said he would not retire from the oil business, however. He stills owns extensive holdings in the new Cross Lake field near Shreveport, in the Lisbon area in Claiborne and Lincoln parishes, in western Kentucky and central Illinois

DOG'S LONG PLAY WITH TRAINS ENDS; MONGREL DIES OF OLD AGE

(By United Press)

CHEYENNE, Wyo.—Suicide is dead.

Railroad men of the Cheyenne Union Pacific division mourned the dog that had more lives than a litter of cats. They christened the mongrel Suicide because of the animal's peculiar idea of adventure.

For almost 15 years the fluffy dog, part Collie but mostly cur, flirted with death under the wheels of passing trains. Early in life Suicide decided that the best place to sleep was on the ties between the rails of the road's main line. Out of that came frequent successful attempts to see how long he could stay between the tracks as whistling trains roared down on him.

Suicide was hit often, but he always came back for more. He bore his scars bravely and didn't even let the loss of one foot spoil his fun.

He was just a pup when taken from Sidney, Neb., in a freight caboose. A tag on his neck said he was for a Cheyenne depot agent. Railroad officials investigated this "illegal" shipping of the pup and charged the train crew, among other things, had moved the dog over a state line without the necessary health examination. The crew members lost three days' work as penalty and Suicide became known as "the $97.50 pup," the amount they lost in salary.

A short time later the pup was hit by a fast mail train and hurled several yards into a borrow pit. The engineer of the train later apologized to the station agent owner that he was sorry the dog had been killed—but had to rescind his words when the dog bit him on the leg.

From that time on, he was known as Suicide.

However, despite his hobby, Suiside cheated the railroad out of his life. His master awoke one morning to find his pet motionless—Suicide had died in his sleep of old age.

FORTUNE TELLER ERRS

PASADENA, Cal.—(U.P.)— Fortune telling apparently does not reveal a person's occupation. Miss Jean McLenen, 58, was arrested on a charge of violating the city's anti-fortune telling ordinance, after telling the fortune of Policewoman Anita Taft and allegedly accepting $1 for it.

Does Your Breath Broadcast—"I WEAR FALSE TEETH"?

Play Safe—Be Sure—Use Polident

People who wear plates or bridges often suffer from a special kind of bad breath. Dentists call it—"denture breath."

You won't know if you have it—but it can spoil your happiness. Friends will shudder—people avoid you! And the worst of it is that ordinary brushing may not prevent it. Neither will mouth washes. For the odor comes from a mucin-scum that collects on plates and bridges. This scum soaks up germs and decay bacteria and causes a vile odor that you cannot detect.

One thing that definitely will stop "denture breath" is Polident! This new brushless cleaner has won the approval of thousands of dentists. Users say it's a blessing.

Polident not only purifies false teeth—but also removes all stain, tarnish and deposits. Makes breath sweeter—plates look better and feel better. Costs only 30¢ at any drug store and lasts for many weeks. Money back if not delighted.

Cleans, Purifies Like Magic

Do this daily: Add a little Polident powder to ½ glass water. Stir. Then put in plate or bridge for 10 to 15 minutes —Rinse—and it's ready to use!
